

Ulster's Real Estate Activity Shows Sharp Upswing

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON
Some call it a boom, still others merely say things have returned to normal. But, whatever you call it, the real estate business in Ulster County during the past year is definitely on the upswing.

Savings bank officials claim they are busier then ever with prospective homeowners on waiting lists for mortgages. Real estate brokers say they have never seen the deed room in the County Office Building busier and statistics bear out both contentions.

According to Albert Spada, County Clerk, there has been an increase of 427 deeds recorded during the first six months of this year compared to the same period last year. Deeds recorded between January and June of this year totaled 2,840. Mortgages increased by 454 during the same period for a total of 1,488.

Spada said that business has been even more brisk during July and August with about 75 per cent more deeds recorded.

Kingston Realtor Walter Caunitz, who has been in the business for 40 years, said he has been through a number of ups and downs in real estate and feels the present business climate is a return to the norm. He suggests that perhaps a good many people have been frightened by talk of inflation and depression and as a consequence have been depositing their funds or proceeds from stock sales in savings accounts, leaving themselves in a position to buy real estate. He claims there is a terrific urge among young people to "move forward" quickly and he agrees that the only way to go is up. "I don't fear a deep depression," he said.

The source of new property owners is varied, he added. Quite a few buyers are from out-of-town and there is an increase of second home buying in this area of the state. Caunitz said there is not too much new building going on and most of it is in the higher priced home bracket which he said creates a problem.

Special

Adele Royael of Royael and Williams Inc. of Kingston said the real estate scene is "moving very rapidly" people seem to feel that they should invest in something stable and they realize that property is the commodity they should have during times of inflation when real estate is more stable than the stock market."

Another Kingston realtor, Howard L. Fox suggested that while business is good and sales are up, he does not feel that there is exceptional action here not when one compares, for instance, Orange County real estate with that sold in Ulster. He said that Orange is very active now with people coming out of New York, buying first and second homes.

Donald Ross, High Falls realtor, agrees that "people have lost their fear of spending" since the stock market, has begun recovering. People are interested in buying again, he said, and mortgage money is available. He also commented that things have "returned to normal."

Spada, in a recent report to the Ulster County Legislature indicated that not only has business increased in the deed and mortgage departments at the County Office Building but in every other segment of the County Clerk's Department.

Motor Vehicle registrations alone have increased by 2,362 for the first six months of this year compared with the same period for 1970 for a total of 35,827. With such escalation, he has requested Motor Vehicle Commissioner Vincent J. Tofani to have another computer installed in the Kingston office in order that there will be a second direct line between the Motor Vehicle Bureau and Albany.

He said that there have also been increases in the recording of other documents such as business certificates, G. I. discharges, passports, notarizations and immigration proceedings.

Spada said the extra business has meant extra work for his staff which he said has "cooperated excellently."

ALEXANDER HAMILTON ON HER FINAL RUN

Steamboat Era Ends on Hudson

NEW YORK (AP)—The Alexander Hamilton, last of the Hudson River sidewheelers, has made her final voyage, ending with a steamboat era that began with Robert Fulton's Clermont 164 years ago.

"They know they will never see her like again," said Edward M. Grady, captain of the Hamilton, as he hauled on a brass pull to sound the powerful tenor steam whistle in answer to salutes from other vessels.

About 100 members of the Steamboat Historical Society were among the 2,700 passengers aboard Monday for the final trip up the river to Poughkeepsie and back with stops at Bear Mountain and West Point.

The Hamilton, or the Alexander as the steamboat buffs call her, will be replaced next year by a twin screw, diesel powered excursion boat now being built in Jacksonville, Fla.

"I wish it luck, but it'll never be what the Hamilton was," said Chief Engineer Elvold Post of Harrington Park, N.J., who has been with her all but one year since he started as an officer in 1931.

The fate of the Hamilton is not yet determined, but she may end up as a restaurant at the South Street Seaport Museum in Lower Manhattan. A sister ship, the Peter Stuyvesant, is now a restaurant in Boston.

At least some of the crew, however, hope she'll find another job on the water. "There are another 40 years in her, easy," said Post, who is retiring with the Hamilton at age 71.

As the boat got underway with her holiday crowd, there were rumors that Post would try for a speed record on the return trip. Not so, he said. "I'll open her up, but I set my speed record on Sept. 23, 1942."

"We left Bear Mountain at 5:45 p.m. that day," he recalled. "We tied up and I was at Englewood Hospital in New Jersey at 7:15, where my wife was having a baby."

The owner of the line commented the next day that all he saw going down the river was steam and "he told me not to have any more babies." Post continued. "We did have one more, but it was off-season."

The Hamilton, built in 1923 at a cost of $850,000, was capable of 18 knots. She was the first of a long line of oil-burning Day Line steamboats that operated in New York waters.

Steamboats have been active on the Hudson ever since 1807 when Robert Fulton first made a successful voyage to Albany in the Clermont, a paddlewheel-er known to its detractors as Fulton's Folly.

Now that era has ended.

Two Fatalities, Area Drowning In Holiday Period

By WALTER S. CLARK

KINGSTON
The 78-hour Labor Day weekend in this area was marred by two traffic fatalities and the accidental drowning of a New York physician in a Dutchess County pond. At least 23 persons lost their lives in highway accidents in New York State.

A National Safety Council indicated that the final traffic death count in the nation for the holiday period could reach 650, as the toll neared 600 today.

Ulster County officials recorded two traffic deaths. John E. Omoro Jr., 21, of Ellenville, was killed Sunday night in a flaming crash of his car on Route 299 in New Paltz, police reported.

Carmen Marrano, 58, of Eden, was dead on arrival at Benedictine Hospital early Saturday, following a crash on the Thruway near Kingston Interchange. His wife, Helen, 56, was seriously injured.

The victim of the area drowning was Dr. Emanuel Patt, who lost his life Saturday while swimming in Long Pond, Schultsville, Dutchess County. His death was ruled accidental.

State and New Paltz Town Police reported the Ellenville man was traveling east on Route 299 in the Town of New Paltz at 10:40 p.m. Sunday when his 1971 car failed to negotiate a curve. The vehicle careened off the pavement and back again and then rolled over coming to a stop on its top. The car burst into flames.

Ulster County Coroner Arthur C. Chipp of Kerhonkson, who investigated with police at the scene of the fatality, said Omoro's car skidded more than 535 feet on the highway before stopping. Omoro was using seat belts.

Chipp ruled the man's death accidental resulting from a fractured skull and cerebral hemorrhages.

Troopers reported the Eden man killed in the Thruway accident Saturday, was a passenger in a car driven by his wife, when the mishap occurred. Police contended the woman apparently fell asleep at the wheel of the car as it veered off the pavement and crashed into a rock cut.

Mrs. Marrano was taken to Benedictine Hospital and later transferred to a hospital in Lackawanna by Fatum's Ambulance.

California reported 71 traffic deaths, Texas had 36, North Carolina 31 and Ohio 27. North Dakota, Nebraska, Alaska and Washington, D.C. had no traffic fatalities.

In one of the worst accidents, 111 persons were killed when a jetliner crashed in Alaska.

Some of the worst traffic accidents included: —Bogaw, N.C.: Seven persons were killed and three others injured, two critically, in a two-car head-on collision.

Traffic in areas where toll booths were employed, such as the state Thruway and at border crossing points into Canada was backed up for considerable distances Monday evening, authorities said.

Meanwhile, local thunderstorms struck many areas to culminate the warm, humid and muggy weather over the weekend that saw temperatures in the 80s every day.

A lightning storm in the Albany area knocked electrical power off at WTEN-TV, WRGB-TV and WROW-FM plus some 850 other customers for about 40 minutes. A mud slide brought on by heavy rain clogged the parking lot at the Whiteface Mountain ski center. There were no injuries.

111 Tupamaros Tunnel Out In Uruguay's Biggest Jailbreak

MONTEVIDEO (UPI)—When Billy Rial called police to report more than 100 Tupamaro guerrillas had just escaped from the Punta Carretas Maximum Security Prison, authorities were somewhat disbelieving.

"Everything is calm at the prison," a police officer told Rial after a telephone check with Punta Carretas.

Rial had trouble convincing them that calm or not, the prison was 111 inmates short. They had just escaped through a 40-yard tunnel that ended in the living room of his mother's house just outside the 100-year-old stone-walled prison.

According to authorities, 106 of the urban terrorists and five other prisoners got out through the tunnel before dawn Monday. So far none of the escapees has been captured although the government has launched a massive campaign to round them up and has put the nation on an "intensification of the state of alert."

The government announced it is determined to "go as far as the law allows to meet the grave situation facing the nation."

Among those who escaped in Uruguay's biggest jailbreak was Raul Sendic, a 34-year-old former law student who is founder and leader of the urban terrorist movement that has specialized in kidnapping—sometimes killing—foreign diplomats, advisors and businessmen.

Rial said he was at home alone Sunday night when a young man knocked at his door and said: "Stay calm, I am a Tupamaro and we're going to use your house."

Rial said "at first I thought it was a joke, but when I saw another young man I let them in." When his mother, his girl friend and two neighbors arrived later they also were held prisoners during the nine-hour escape. At all times, Rial said, they were treated "correctly" by the Tupamaros.

"During those nine hours they didn't even drink a cup of coffee, although I offered them some," Rial said. "It's incredible that no one heard them because around midnight we could hear digging sounds and they came up exactly in my living room."

Rial said as the men came out of the 16-by-20 inch mouth of the tunnel "they would change clothes and then pass through a hole they had knocked in the wall to a house in the back."

The last man escaped and the Tupamaros left his home at about 4:10 a.m. "I called police but they wouldn't believe me," Rial said. A police officer told him, "It can't be, just a minute, we'll call the prison."

A few seconds later, Rial said the officer told him "everything is tranquil at the prison."

The escaped prisoners left their prison garb—right down to the underwear—piled outside Rial's home. They apparently changed into civilian clothing and left the area in two buses and a truck, which was later found by police.

On July 30, 38 female Tupamaros also escaped through a tunnel from the woman's prison where they were being held.

The Tupamaros kidnapped and killed Dan A. Mitronne, Richmond, Ind., a U.S. police advisor to the Uruguayan government Aug. 1970. They kidnapped and then released after a number of weeks U.S. soils expert Claude L. Fly, Ft. Collins, Colo., after he suffered a heart attack.

They still are holding British Ambassador Geoffrey Jackson, 56, who was kidnapped in January, and four other hostages.

The mass escape undoubtedly will be a serious blow to the hardline government of President Jorge Pacheco Areco since the escape left only 30 or 40 guerrillas in prison and destroyed years of police work against what is the most successful urban guerrilla movement in Latin America.

BPW Work Residency Law Before Aldermen Tonight

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON
The Department of Public Works has gone the way of the Police Department, asking that residency laws for employment be relaxed so that the DPW can draw on a larger manpower pool for its key personnel.

The request to increase the residency limits to a 10-mile radius around the city was approved by the BPW commissioners at their regular meeting on Thursday night and will head tonight's agenda when the aldermen meet at city hall.

Last year, the police department extended its eligibility area to 1-mile radius around the city and saw a marked increase in recruitment. The police force is now at full strength for the first time in several years.

Charles J. Cole, BPW superintendent, in his recommendation letter to the commissioners, notes that such key personnel as motor equipment operators and repairmen and foremen are retiring faster than they can be replaced. The proposal will go to the Laws and Rules Committee tonight.

It was also announced today, by City Clerk Louis F. DeCicco, 339-3475, that the city has a dog catcher, Harry Walters, former shelter manager for the Ulster County SPCA.

According to DeCicco, Walters has been working for the city since Aug. 16 at $140 per week, but that the announcement was not made until now because Walters did not have a telephone. The number to call for the city dog catcher, who will work exclusively in the city, is 339-3475. Walters' phone was installed on Friday, the delay being blamed on the telephone strike.

The dogs will be housed at the offices of Dr. Gilbert F. Hoppenstedt, a veterinarian on Route 32. Dr. Hoppenstedt will house unlicensed dogs for three days after they are caught and licensed dogs for 10 days after they are caught and their owners are notified. The veterinarian's fee will range from $2.50 to $3.50 per day per dog. The city has some $5,300 left over from its dog control contract with the SPCA, which the SPCA canceled on July 1, for this current dog control program with Walters. Walters has his own truck.

George E. Radcliffe, building inspector, has submitted preliminary proposals to the Laws and Rules Committee updating the city's zoning laws. They include a requirement that all above ground swimming pools with three or more feet of water have a four-foot fence constructed around them.

Also, the building inspector proposes that all overhanging signs in excess of 12 inches be banned and any existing signs be removed over a two-year period.

Mayor Francis R. Koenig has also forwarded to the Council an agreement between the city and the urban renewal agency whereby the city would take over ownership and operation of the North Front Street Parking Garage.

Robbed of $940 at Park

KINGSTON
A 27-year-old Connecticut woman was robbed Labor Day afternoon of traveler's checks worth $900 and about $40 in cash as she sat on a bench talking with friends at the Academy Green, according to police.

Detective Lieutenant Charles McCullough said detectives were seeking the thief who robbed Laurel Pierce of 583 Park Road, West Hartford, Conn., and an arrest was expected soon.

Police said the woman was in the Academy Green park opposite the Governor Clinton Hotel with friends at 3:15 p.m. Monday when a man approached and grabbed her purse which she had on a strap around her shoulders.

The woman fell to the ground in a scuffle with her assailant who fled with the pocketbook containing the checks, cash and personal papers. The alleged robber was last seen running between two houses on Maiden Lane.

A search of the area failed to locate the suspect.

VETS AT CITY HALL — Joseph E. Sills Jr., chairman of the Kingston Veterans Association fund raising committee for a permanent memorial site at city hall, and volunteer, digs in, Saturday, clearing the way for construction of two 38-foot flagpoles. The city has donated the green at city hall for the memorial. So far, more than $500 has been raised toward the $10,000 goal. Four armed forces recruiters will march 100 miles on Sept. 30-Oct. 1 for the cause. Hundred dollar contributors include Joseph Kelly, Conrad J. Heiselman, former mayor; G. Jerry Ausanio and the Uptown Businessmen's Association. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Kheel Sees Need of Subway Subsidy

NEW YORK (AP) — Labor mediator Theodore W. Kheel said the state legislature must enact a subsidy for New York City's subway system this fall because federal post-freeze price controls almost certainly would prohibit a transit fare subsidy issue on the agenda of the special legislative session planned for November. The governor said several weeks ago that the special session should deal only with reapportionment.

Republican leaders, however, have indicated they would take up the subsidy issue at the special session if Democratic leaders in the city reached agreement on a fare package bill.

City Democrats led the defeat of a subsidy package in the legislature earlier this year. The bill would have imposed tolls on the now-free East River bridges, raised tolls on other bridges and provided $110 million in direct aid to maintain subways and commuter trains.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, co-sponsor of the defeated subsidy plan, scheduled a meeting today with the Board of Estimate. He was expected to discuss ways of saving the 30-cent fare.

The Transit Authority faces a deficit of more than $100 million and a Dec. 31 deadline on its two-year contract with transit workers.

$5,500 For MD

KINGSTON
Ulster County residents pledged about $4,500 and gave an additional $1,000 in cash this past weekend for the Jerry Lewis annual television marathon which benefits muscular dystrophy.

According to Peter Tierney, and MD spokesman David Oakley, who is chairman of the drive for the Kingston Jaycees, this year's pledges added up to between $1,200 and $1,300 more than last year.

Nationally, Lewis the comedian, concluded the telethon with contribution pledges totaling in excess of $8 million.

Locally, the television pledges were received at the Gov. Clinton Hotel where many persons and organizations volunteered their services including the Kingston and Saugerties Jaycees, Saugerties Girl Scouts, Ulster County Ladies Auxiliary of Young Marines and the Saugerties Ambulance Service.

All proceeds go toward the Muscular Dystrophy Association of America Inc.

The telethon was seen coast-to-coast on 121 stations and its pledge total was a record for programs of its kind.

Lewis, on stage from 10:30 p.m. Sunday to 6:30 p.m. Monday, was joined by dozens of other entertainers and by government and labor figures who made appearances.

2 Drug Arrests at Reservoir

WOODSTOCK
Charged with trespassing on property of the Kingston City Reservoir in this township early Sunday, nine persons were arrested by Town Police, and two of them were subsequently booked on charges of criminal possession of dangerous drugs, sixth degree.

Chief William Waterous, who made the arrests with Officers Allen Van Wagenen and Ludwig Baumgarten, reported Carmine Marino of Rutherford, N. J., and Thomas Schultz of Carlstadt, N. J., were booked on the drugs charges after they were found in possession of six plastic bags containing marijuana, a number of mescaline tablets and hashish.

Marino and Schultz pleaded guilty to both charges before Town Justice Walter Van Wagenen. They were each fined $50 on the drugs counts and $10 on the criminal trespass charge. In lieu of payment of the fines, they were committed to the county jail.

The other seven pleaded guilty to trespass charges and each paid a $10 fine. Police said none of the defendants was from this area.

Chief Waterous also reported two arrests early Monday following a complaint regarding a disturbance at the Tannerybrook Motel in Woodstock. Thomas Topscher, 18, of New York City, was cited for harassment and resisting arrest after he allegedly damaged a room at the motel and became abusive to Waterous and Officer Baumgarten.

The youth pleaded guilty and was fined $50 or 15 days in jail by Judge Van Wagenen. Topscher's uncle, James Dugan, 25, also of New York City, was booked for harassment arising from the same incident. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25. While at arraignment, Dugan became abusive and was cited by Van Wagenen for contempt of court. He pleaded guilty later to that charge and was fined $50.

A Rewritten Agenda for the Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress returns this week after a month's vacation to find its agenda rewritten by President Nixon—his "new American revolution" replaced by his new economic policy.

When the congressional recess began Aug. 6, Nixon was pushing welfare reform and revenue sharing as the centerpiece of the program he outlined in his State of the Union message last January.

But the President, faced with a steadily worsening economy, shifted gears Aug. 15. He called for passage of a tax package, froze wages, prices and rents for 90 days and took action to stabilize the dollar.

And he asked Congress to delay the effective dates of his welfare-reform and revenue-sharing plans to hold down federal spending and allow prompt consideration of his economic program.

Nixon called for repeal of the 7-per-cent excise tax on new automobiles, a speedup in the scheduled $50 increase in individual income-tax exemptions and a 10-per-cent tax credit for business investment.

Although congressional disapproval has been widespread, leaders of both parties have pledged prompt consideration of the tax package. The House Ways and Means Committee has scheduled hearings

Wednesday, the day Congress returns.

Indications are that a package will be approved, possibly as early as October. But there probably will be changes in the Nixon proposals.

Democratic critics maintain they are weighted too heavily in favor of big business at the expense of individual taxpayers.

Under his "new American revolution," Nixon also had asked for federal government reorganization. However, this has drawn strong opposition both from key Democrats and Republicans and Congress has shown no disposition to deal with it this session.

Before the August recess, congressional leaders were talking of a possible Oct. 15 adjournment for the session. That idea went out the window with Nixon's economic announcement.

JFK Center Dress Rehearsal

Jury Still Out on Bernstein Works

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leonard Bernstein, his gray hair ruffled and his face tense, leaned over the plush red velvet balcony of the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts—totally concentrating on the first public performance of his composition, "Mass." It was a dress rehearsal—before a sold-out audience of 2,200 in the new Opera House—and the energy and enthusiasm Bernstein generates were apparent. With hands stretched tautly across the railing, he listened, straining, smiling, grimacing, gesturing—never idle, never relaxed.

At "Mass" ended with a kiss of peace, which some in the audience picked up and spread to their neighbors, Bernstein seemed almost at prayer—his palms clasped together, fingers upward, almost touching his lips.

Bernstein will have to wait until Thursday morning to learn if the music critics think he's come up with a landmark in the music-drama-dance world to match his "West Side Story" and "On the Town." But the response of the audience was both immediate and exuberant.

For more than a quarter hour after the curtain, the crowd stood, stamped, clapped and yelled bravos.

On stage, Bernstein summoned the conductor, Maurice Peress, and Alvin Alley, the choreographer.

Among the crowd—and besieged by autograph hunters before the curtain but little noticed afterwards in the groundswell for Bernstein—were Sen. and Mrs. Edward M. Kennedy, brother of the slain president for whom the center is named.

"It was fitting . . . fitting," Kennedy said. "It surpasses all expectations."

It was the first audience in the completed Kennedy Center. The rehearsal came on the 13th year and fourth day after President Eisenhower signed legislation to match private donations with federal funds for a national cultural center. Critics here say it's the biggest cultural day in Washington's 177 years as the seat of government. Monday's dress rehearsal was open to anyone at $5, $10, and $15 prices—and the garb ranged from purple leather hot pants to yellow blue jeans to a mix of long-and-elegant and short-and-fancy dresses. Mrs. Kennedy wore a light turquoise short-sleeved dress which skimmed her knee.

Tonight, the diplomatic corps, governors and members of Congress will attend a formal preview of "Mass." Wednesday is an invitation-only grand opening of the Center and official premiere of Bernstein's "Mass."

President Nixon has donated his presidential Opera House box to the Kennedy family.

Jacksonville Begins the Year Amid School Racial Unrest

Amid racial unrest, Jacksonville, Fla., begins a school desegregation program today that requires the busing of almost half its students.

Florida's largest city was among a number of school systems around the nation beginning new terms. Many Southern schools opened last week under federal desegregation plans calling for extensive busing to achieve a racial balance in classrooms. There were few incidents.

Busing also moves into the North today with the opening of schools at Pontiac, Mich., where 10 school buses were destroyed by explosives last week. Citizens groups have failed in legal efforts to revive or delay the desegregation program requiring the North's first busing to achieve a racial balance.

On the eve of the Jacksonville opening, police had to use tear gas to disperse about 800 blacks throwing rocks and bottles at cars in a black neighborhood. Mayor Hans Tandler ordered a curfew over a square-mile portion of the area. There were no reports of serious injury in the disturbance which, police said, began when a policeman was attacked while answering a family disturbance call in the black neighborhood.

The Jacksonville desegregation program is in two phases, the first providing for the busing of 55,000 of the school system's 123,000 students, compared to 38,750 last year. Phase Two raises the busing total to 75,000 and goes into effect in 1972.

There was some apprehension also at Chattanooga, Tenn., where schools opened today under a new integration order setting an enrollment of 70 per cent white and 30 per cent black in each school. An explosion during the Labor Day holiday weekend heavily damaged a portable classroom at Brainerd High School, which had seen sporadic racial unrest last spring.

About 15,000 more children are to be bused at Nashville, Tenn., and authorities scheduled half-day classes today and Wednesday to permit students to learn new bus routes.

Schools in Orange County, Fla., began under their old desegregation plan, but Federal Judge George C. Young has ordered the school board to present a new plan by Friday. The problems of doubling the number of bused students have forced at least at week's delay in the opening of schools at Norfolk, Va.

At Savannah, Ga., more than 40 persons participated in an antibusing motorcade Monday night. Savannah schools opened Friday with many children boycotting classes.

In San Francisco, Police Chief Alfred Nelder said "law and order" will be maintained during the busing of half of the city's 48,000 elementary school children next week.

Ecology Group Topples Six Upstate Billboards

ELMIRA, N.Y. (AP) — A group calling itself "Americans for a Scenic Environment" has claimed responsibility for the cutting down of six billboards along a four-lane highway southeast of here.

A handwritten note attached to one of the felled billboards said "this portion of scenery which was unjustly stolen from nature and the people is now being returned to its rightful owners," according to state police.

The sign-cutting was discovered when an individual who said he was a spokesman for "Americans for a Scenic Environment" called a newspaper reporter and said the makeshift group had felled the billboards early Monday.

Another billboard was cut down early today, 25 miles to the northwest, according to the Schuyler County sheriff's department. All the signs, including one weighing an estimated 6,000 pounds, were felled.

The study is based on a survey of only about half of the county. The note left on the felled sign said "we hope that this to-

Also speaking will be Don Nielson, on Comments by the Administrator of the New York State Apple Marketing Order.

Horse Disease Claims Life Of Woman

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—A Florida woman has died of Eastern Equine Encephalitis, the same disease that struck a Central New York baby about two weeks ago.

Mrs. Ollie Phillips of Gainesville is believed to be the first person in the nation this year to have been stricken with the virus. She died Monday at the University of Florida Medical Center.

Shad Slade, 7 weeks old, of Central Square, has been hospitalized in St. Joseph's Hospital, Syracuse, with the disease. His doctor has said his condition is fair.

A 20,000-acre area north of Oneida Lake was sprayed to eliminate mosquitos that carry the disease.

Mrs. Phillips, 43, had been hospitalized since Aug. 7. A hospital spokesman said the cause of death was pneumonia and complications arising from her disease.

The spokesman said he did not believe she came out of her coma during the entire time she was in the hospital.

EEE has some characteristics in common with Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis, which killed some 1,300 horses in Texas and Mexico earlier this year.

Kingston Town Okays Board On Assessments

The Town of Kingston met Monday night in regular session and unanimously approved a three-man assessment board of review.

The town, which has an appointed assessor, had a choice between naming either a five-man or a three-man board of review. Justice Richard Alberts' motion for a three-man board was seconded by Councilman Dominick Petramale.

Supervisor Donald V. Dolan has asked for applications from town residents for board membership who have a knowledge of property values and of town government.

The board also named town Constables Raymond J. Galvin and Eugene T. McNis as dog enumerators for the town dog census in October.

Deposits of all but the two lowest bidders will be returned within forty-eight hours after the time of opening bids. Deposits of the successful bidder and the second lowest bidder will be returned upon the acceptance of the bonds of the successful bidder and the execution of the contract agreement.

The Department of Environmental Conservation reserves the right to reject any or all bids. An approved performance Surety Bond to the extent of one hundred per cent (100%) of the contract price and an approved Surety Bond guaranteeing the labor and materials to the extent of one hundred per cent (100%) of the contract price will be required from the successful bidder. No proposal shall be considered from a "foreign contractor," i.e., in the case of an individual, a person who is a legal resident of another state or foreign country, in the case of a firm or co-partnership, one having one or more partners legal residents of another state or foreign country and in the case of a corporation, one having its principal place of business in another state or foreign country unless such contractor has on file with the Environmental Conservation Commissioner a certificate of the New York State Tax Commissioner that any taxes due and payable by such contractor under the provisions of Articles Nine-A and Sixteen of the Tax Law prior to the submission of the proposal have been paid.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS:

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that sealed Proposals are requested for Alterations to John Burroughs Science Laboratories #3 & #4, as set forth in the Drawings and Specifications of Albert Edward Milliken, Architect, 224 Fair Street, Kingston, New York, Job No. 642-Q. The Proposals will be for separate contracts for: (1) General Construction; (2) Plumbing; (3) Heating & Ventilating; (4) Electrical Work.

Separate sealed bids submitted in duplicate on Proposal Form furnished by the Architect will be received at the office of the Clerk of the Ulster County Legislature, County Office Building, Fair Street, Kingston, New York, on or before 3:00 p.m. Thursday, September 30, 1971 and at that time publicly opened and read aloud.

Instruction to Bidders, Proposal Forms, General & Supplementary Conditions, Labor Standards, Wage Rates, Drawings and Specifications may be examined by Bidders at the office of Albert Edward Milliken, 224 Fair Street, Kingston, New York. Copies of these documents may be obtained at this office upon deposit of cash or certified check in the amount of $35.00 for each set of (1) General Construction; (2) Plumbing; (3) Heating & Ventilating; (4) Electrical Work.

Two sets of plans and specifications may be obtained upon payment of $35.00 each set. The deposit for each of the first two sets of each contract will be returned to any bidder duly submitting a Proposal accompanied by required bid security, provided all such documents are returned in condition free of marking, defacement and the like within thirty days following award of contract, or rejection of Proposals. One-half of such deposit will be refunded to all non-bidders upon return of all documents in condition free of marking, defacement and the like.

Additional sets of plans and specifications may be obtained of the (1) General Construction; (2) Plumbing; (3) Heating & Ventilating; (4) Electrical Work upon the deposit of $35.00 for each set. However, said deposit of $35.00 will not be returned to the Contractor.

Bids shall be accompanied by a bid guarantee of not less than five per cent (5%) of the amount of the bid, which may be a Bid Bond, Certified Check or Cash. Such bid or check shall be submitted with the understanding that it shall guarantee that the Bidder will not withdraw his bid for a period of forty-five (45) days after the scheduled closing time for the receipt of Bids; that if his bid is accepted, he will enter into a formal contract with the Owner and that the required performance and payment bond will be given; and that in the event of the withdrawal of said bid within said period, or the failure to enter into said contract and give said bonds within ten (10) days after he has received notice of the acceptance of his bid, the bidder shall be liable to the Owner for the full amount of the bid guarantee as representing the damage to the Owner on account of the default of the bidder in any particular thereof. The Bid Bonds and checks shall be returned to all except the three (3) lowest bidders within three (3) days after formal opening of bids. The remaining Bid Bonds and checks will be returned to the three lowest bidders within forty-eight (48) hours after the Owner and the accepted bidder have executed the contract and the executed Performance Bond and Payment Bonds have been approved by the Owner. If the required contract and bonds have not been executed within (45) days after the date of the opening of bids, then the bond or check of any bidder shall be returned upon his request, provided he has not been notified of the acceptance of his bid prior to the date of such request.

The right is reserved to waive any informalities in or reject any or all bids submitted. Attention of Bidders is particularly called to the minimum wage rates to be paid under the contract. DATED: Sept. 2, 1971

Welfare Rolls Drop

The first drop in three years in the relief rolls is attributed to state-initiated welfare cuts and stricter eligibility requirements. A drop of 37,000 in a 14,406,000 total may not be much, but if it starts a trend, it could be substantial in a short while.

For instance, New York State made a new rule requiring employables on relief to call for their checks at the state employment offices. After six weeks, just about one in five had not called. That seems to substantiate the fear expressed by Governor Rockefeller, that a lot of welfare misrepresentation had been going on.

The needs of welfare recipients was no less, but the failure of employables to call for their checks raised questions about their eligibility.

Between 30,000 and 50,000 able-bodied welfare recipients—generally single and childless—are expected to report to the City of New York for work without extra pay. Under the new state law, they are required to work out the amount of their relief grants for public offices if the State Employment Service does not find private work for them. With unemployment still high, the chances of private employment is almost nil. That means the able-bodied recipients will do municipal and county or school work without displacing regular public employees.

The Community Council of the Greater City of New York was critical of the state attitude toward relief employables. It charged that state officials were emphasizing a screenout of welfare recipients failing to pick up checks instead of stressing the mechanism for and the results of placing clients in the labor force.

As a matter of fact, the officials are giving able-bodied relief clients every opportunity to work. The 80 per cent who picked up their checks were given public work because there were none in the private sector. The 20 per cent who did not call for their checks could not be helped to work. They were not interested in working, else they would have appeared.

Pre-Induction Physicals

Except for calling up men for induction, it is business as usual in the Selective Service System. Draft boards are beginning now to give physical examinations to about 250,000 19-year-olds who drew numbers 1 to 50 in the August 5 lottery for the 1972 draft.

The boards also will go ahead with plans to test 20-year-olds holding numbers 125 to 175 for this year's draft. Both examinations will be given to take effect when and if the authority to call up men is reinstated.

It was estimated that only half the number examined would be drafted. The rest would either fail the examination, qualify for exemptions or be passed over for other reasons.

Assuming that the induction authority is restored when Congress takes up the matter after its summer recess in September, the first men to be inducted after January 1 will be a carry-over group who had low lottery numbers last year but whose deferments kept them from induction.

Since the draft law expired, the government has chosen not to exercise its authority to induct thousands of young men whose temporary deferments for such reasons as college education have expired. This group is said to be liable for the draft if Congress fails to pass the extension.

Draft boards are entitled to provide pre-induction examinations early enough for potential draftees to know where they stand and for officials to have ample time to process the examinations. It can best be characterized as effective preparedness for the good of all concerned.

No-Victim Crime Law

No-fault automobile insurance laws have been under discussion recently and are getting tests in some states. Now three legislators in New York State are talking of no-victim crime laws. They plan to hold hearings to consider new legal approaches to them.

These legislators contend that laws against gambling, prostitution and homosexuality are unenforceable and invite police corruption. Both these conclusions may have some basis in fact but that still does not justify a revolutionary change in attitude toward crimes which are against morals.

"We believe the possibility that there may be acts which society cannot condone but which might be controlled without involving the overburdened and costly system of police and courts and jails," a joint statement by the three legislators stated.

They stressed they were not advocating legalizing gambling, prostitution or homosexuality, but keeping an open mind about all three. They believe that a recent crackdown on vice was counterproductive and diverts police from street crime.

The hearings may develop new approaches. But without involving the police, the courts and the jails, how else can society control these social ailments? Nor can it be said that any of these crimes do not victimize others. With drugs and alcohol, they are at the bottom of most social ills.

The Heat's On!

David Lawrence Says Soviet Admits Supplying Military Aid to N. Vietnam

WASHINGTON—For the first time, the Soviet Union has publicly admitted that it has furnished money and military weapons as well as advisors to North Vietnam since 1955.

It has been generally known, of course, in the last few years that the Soviets were backing the Hanoi government and that the aid given has run into billions of dollars. But the United States government had never said anything about it nor have the American people recognized that their troops have been, in effect, fighting an army trained by the Soviets.

"Pravda," which is the Communist party newspaper in Moscow, has just listed the categories of Soviet war aid and the number of its personnel involved. Hitherto, the Soviets have not revealed any details as to the nature of their assistance to North Vietnam, although there have been news dispatches indicating that large sums were being spent to help Hanoi.

"Pravda" says: "During the war years, the Soviet Union was sending to the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam the arms, ammunition and other military equipment that became the foundation of the Republic's anti-aircraft defense system."

"The support of the Soviet Union was one of the most important factors in helping North Vietnam to survive difficult years and in forcing the United States to stop the war of devastation."

The article adds that about 7,000 North Vietnamese personnel had been trained in the Soviet Union from 1955 on, including 4,000 "specialists."

American military officials have been aware of the assistance given by the Soviets and also the aid furnished by the Red Chinese. The United States intervened in Indo-China because South Vietnam was about to be taken over by the Communists in North Vietnam. Most Americans, however, have never realized that our real opponents in the Vietnam war have been the major Communist countries in Asia and Europe, and that huge sums have been spent by them not only for military supplies and weapons but for the training of armies.

In a sense, American troops have been fighting against the Soviets and Red Chinese, but nobody in our government here or in Asia has said so openly. Today, as American participation in the Vietnam war is being brought to a close, the facts are coming out, and the Russians are beginning to claim credit for what they say is a defeat for the United States.

The Soviets are engaged in supplying military aid in different parts of the world, and it is known that they are an active ally of Egypt in the Middle East. Israel has sought help from the United States. Again, the adversaries are not really Egypt and Israel but Washington and Moscow. Peace can be attained only if an understanding is reached by the diplomats in the United States and the Soviet Union.

Just what has been the purpose of the Russians in playing such a role to strengthen North Vietnam? It is assumed here that the objective has been not so much to thwart the United States as it has been to make sure that Red China would not take over Indo-China. Indeed, some experts believe that the Vietnam War can be brought to an end through the influence of Moscow today only because there is little likelihood that Red China will continue to spend huge sums to aid North Vietnam.

The United States, of course, has built up in South Vietnam a government with a large army and plenty of military supplies. There is every intention to continue military assistance even though American troops may not be present in South Vietnam.

The amazing thing about the Soviet disclosures is that the Communist press has repeatedly charged the United States with committing aggression when actually North Vietnam has been trying to grab South Vietnam while the Soviet Union has been assisting in the process. Now that the war is almost over and the American government has been denounced by many members of Congress and other critics inside the country, the Communists feel they can continue to argue that their objective was to help North Vietnam repel aggression by Americans.

The facts, however, are clear. South Vietnam was invaded by North Vietnamese aided by the Soviets and were it not for the military help supplied by the Soviet Union and Red China, North Vietnam could never have maintained the military operations of the last several years against both South Vietnam and the United States.

some guy put a wigwag next to it?

"I'm not against Indians. I tried to help an Indian once. He didn't appreciate it. I said to him, you Indians got a rough deal. If you guys would stop and think for a minute, you'd realize what was happening when the Pilgrims ran that Thanksgiving game on you."

"You remember that 'Come over to dinner' thing? They never invited you back, did they? He looked at me and said: 'They NEVER invited you people.' Now I don't have to take this from an Indian. If I let him get away with this, next he'll want to marry my sister. I was sweet and polite. I said 'Why should they invite us over to dinner when we're doin' the cookin'?'"

Godfrey Cambridge, who convulses me merely by looking out of the TV set, tells how difficult it is for a black man to hail a white taxi. "I stand there with a big broad smile on my face. I remove my sunglasses so he doesn't think I'm a drug addict." Then he says there is the screaming, friendly, grinning approach: "Goin' DOWNtown? Down. I'm not goin' to Harlem."

If you're a well-heeled black, Cambridge has one final gambit he uses to get a taxi. It's called the Godfrey Cambridge Rent-a-White Service. You rent a white man for $2 an hour and all he has to do is hail cabs for you.

Jack Anderson Says Meany Agrees to Discuss The Wage Freeze With Nixon

WASHINGTON — AFL-CIO boss George Meany has agreed to sit down with President Nixon and discuss their differences.

We reported in an earlier column how the President, soon after settling in the White House, tried to butter up Meany but managed instead to alienate him.

The irascible old labor tyrant, with his gruff manner and omnipresent cigar, has the finesse of Edward G. Robinson playing a 1920 labor boss. At the first howl over the wage-price freeze, therefore, the President calculated that Meany had a poor public image and made the mistake of trying to isolate him from his union members.

The White House has now put up a smokescreen to hide the President's mishandling of Meany. We have been able, however, to see through the official haze.

As we previously reported, Nixon personally made the decision to undercut the AFL-CIO chief. He gave the assignment to one of his best backroom operators, Charles Colson, who has handled such political hatchwork as traducing ex-Sen. Joseph Tydings, D-Md., during the 1970 campaign.

Colson's Conspiracy
Colson wrote the statement that Labor Secretary James Hodgson delivered, charging that Meany was "out of step," with his members. Colson's assistant, George Bell, also telephoned the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and urged its executive vice president, Arch Booth, to call for the retirement of all labor leaders over 70.

This would have been aimed, of course, at the 77-year-old Meany. But Booth discreetly declined to be the White House mouthpiece on this issue.

Now the President, realizing his mistake in antagonizing the old labor warhorse has called off Colson, and is trying to repair his relations with Meany. Secretary Hodgson, hat in hand, made the first overture.

"The President stole $5 billion from our members with this freeze," Meany greeted Hodgson. But he agreed grumpily to talk over the next economic moves with the President.

Footnote: Meany will demand that profits and interest rates also be frozen and will suggest that wage-price-profit controls should be administered by a board of business, labor and public members. The President is reported to be willing to extend the freeze and to establish a review board. However, he has told at least one advisor emphatically that he intends to return to a free market economy as early as possible. To stimulate the free enterprise system, he is considering legislation to impose antitrust-like penalties

Henry J. Taylor Says Politicians Put Dollar in Trouble

The dollar untying from gold convertibility widely overlooks one fundamental. And we seem to forget it at our peril. Now is a time to think — and think clearly — for that monetary move cannot work unless this fundamental is met head-on.

The dollar is in trouble because the politicians put it there.

Forgetting that is like wearing a tweed suit to get rid of dandruff. It makes dandruff easier to live with but has nothing whatever to do with curing the trouble.

Gold, the key to international confidence, is the great political discipliner. The Swiss currency is "strong," for example, because it has a 136 per cent backing by gold. Austria's money is now backed by 122 per cent in gold reserves. So is little Portugal's. Our gold stock is now lower than that of Europe's six Common Market countries. It has gone down every year for 15 years while the reserves of those countries have gone up. So has the strength of their gold-backed currencies, just as has been true of the Japanese yen.

There are ancient and powerful reasons for this universal feeling about gold. With worldwide millions the wisdom of generations shows that gold is real wealth and paper money is not — a knowledge that does not change. Generation after generation throughout the world have learned — the hard way — that while their paper money depreciates and their governments break their promises and you lose, gold remains heavy in your hand — the metal that made the international gold standard the greatest adventure in economic "integration" the world has ever seen. Combined with free trade or even moderate tariffs, it worked toward turning the world into a single market.

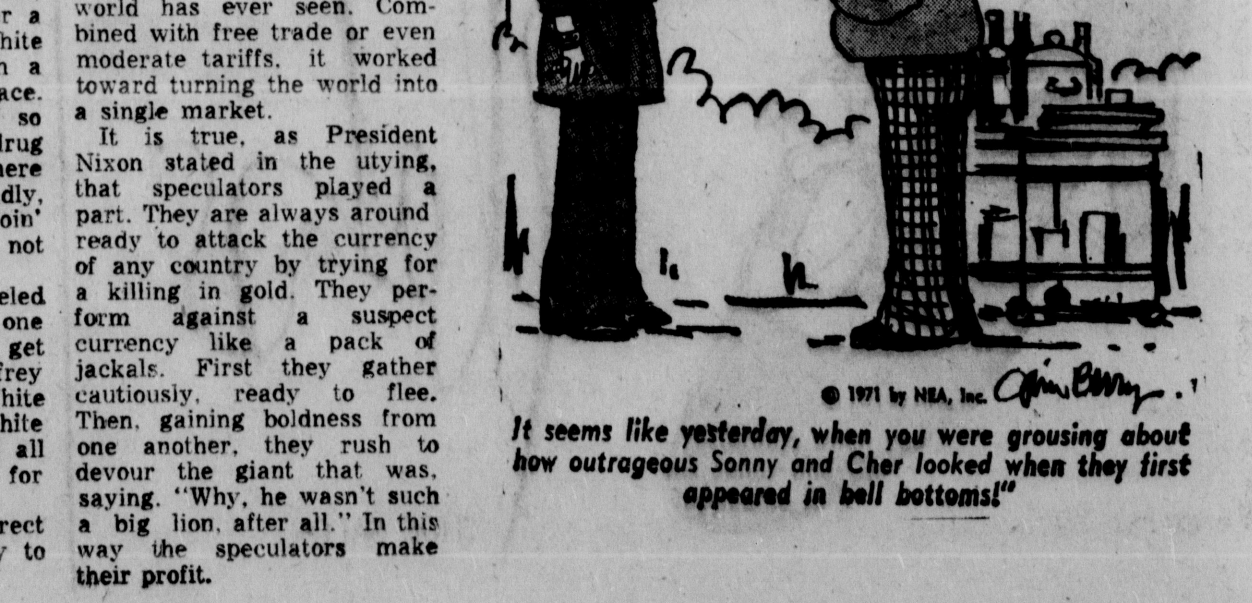

It is true, as President Nixon stated in the uttling, that speculators played a part. They are always around ready to attack the currency of any country by trying for a killing in gold. They perform against a suspect currency like a pack of jackals. First they gather cautiously, ready to flee. Then, gaining boldness from one another, they rush to devour the giant that was, saying, "Why, he wasn't such a big lion, after all." In this way the speculators make their profit.

These administrations buried the truth about the dollar's value abroad by techniques that ranged all the way from actually double-counting our gold bars on hand to tinkering with maturities of otherwise routine government securities. They thus masked their financial irresponsibility.

What we must remember is that we have had 11 years of purposeful — purposeful — inflation created by the politicians' double-talk and irresponsibilities. Those chickens are all coming home to roost and we are living in the coop.

Any monetary system will work for the United States if we have a balanced budget and an equilibrium in our international balance of trade. But we have neither. Instead we have had billions on billions in unending, irresponsible budget deficits, the latest a catastrophic $23.2 billion crusher, and true balance-of-payments deficits only now being honestly revealed.

We are trapped in the backwash of deficit financing, juggled books, pork-barrel and out, confiscatory taxation — in short, "spend, spend, elect, elect." And until this politically profitable overspending ends, the U.S. dollar and our cost of living have no more chance than a dead duck in a bag.

It seems like yesterday, when you were grousing about how outrageous Sonny and Cher looked when they first appeared in bell bottoms!

State Slates Changes In Social Department

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — A major reorganization of the State Social Services Department that will establish two primary divisions within the multi-faceted agency has been announced by Commissioner George K. Wyman.

To set up the two new divisions, Wyman said Saturday, required consolidation of five existing divisions and two offices within the department into the major units that will report directly to the commissioner.

The two new units will be a Division of Operations and a Division of Program Development and Evaluation. To establish the two, Wyman said, the existing titles of first deputy commissioner, five deputy commissioners and counsel and director of social research and evaluation were abolished.

Named to the newly created post of first deputy commissioner for operations was Edward Maher, currently an assistant vice president for administration at the University of Connecticut. Maher will receive $37,500 a year in the job. Harry Posman, currently director of the Office of Social Research and Program Development, will receive a yearly salary of $36,000.

99's Chapter Sets Event

KINGSTON of Woodstock, a pilot for Carroll's Air Service. Incorporated of Kingston. She is also well-known for her efforts in making the Benedictine Hospital Helicopter a reality. Said Miss Brownlee, "We plan to have a lot of fun, but the event has a much higher purpose... that of raising money for our Amelia Earhart Scholarship Fund, which each year, aids three women in furthering their air education, with the emphasis on air safety."

Ninety-nine replies were received and Miss Earhart immediately dubbed the group the "Ninety Nines," an organization which now includes 4,000 chapters and 3,700 women members.

That the group is still active and flourishing will be very much in evidence Saturday, Sept. 11, as the Hudson Valley Chapter of the Ninety-Nines will play hosts to women pilots from various areas throughout the eastern seaboard at an all-day clambake at Hidden Valley, Whiteport.

Coordinating the event is Mickey Duncan, director of Hidden Valley, herself a licensed pilot. "We're expecting upward of 300 women from all over New York State and the East Coast, their families and friends," she said, adding that the event is also open to the public.

Co Chairman is Gail Brownlee

In addition to the newly established deputy commissioner posts, Wyman announced the appointments of five current department employees to new titles at their present salaries and said three associate commissioners also would be appointed.

Appointed to new titles at the same salaries within the department (present title first) were: —Miss Eleanor Walsh, currently deputy commissioner for family services to deputy commissioner for social services program development in the Division of Program Development and Evaluation.

—Clifford Talcott, deputy commissioner for welfare administration to deputy commissioner for direct services in the Division of Operations.

—Dr. Carlyle Nuckols, deputy commissioner for medical services to deputy commissioner for medical program development and evaluation.

—Bernard Shapiro, deputy commissioner for New York City Affairs, to deputy commissioner for operations in the Division of Operations.

—Felix Infausto, counsel, to deputy commissioner for legal affairs.

WEIRD POTATOES — If you don't dig potatoes, you might just dig these. Grown by William E. Bryant on New Salem Road, RD 5, one vine alone, shown here by his wife, Pauline, has produced 18 potatoes. Not only is Bryant a prolific gardener but an unorthodox one. He planted these potatoes on "top" of the ground rather than underneath and he harvests them by merely raking them up from under grass clippings covering them. No dirt and no dig. Orange County Police Officials Investigating Two Murder Cases

MONTICELLO man was charged Monday with murder after his wife's body was discovered in a room at the Imperial 400 Motel in Newburgh. A man who walked into police headquarters here and told officers that he believed his wife was ill, has been charged with her beating murder. Alfred Whitfield, 37, Monticello, was ordered held without bail pending a hearing in the death of Mrs. Josephine Whitfield, 25. Officers who investigated after Whitfield appeared at the police station, found Mrs. Whitfield dead in bed at the Whitfield home. The coroner's office said Mrs. Whitfield died of shock caused by numerous injuries suffered in the beating.

Newburgh police charged Philip Woodman, 22, in connection with the strangulation death of his wife Joanne, 20. Police found the body in the couple's room at the motel.

Bechtold Out Of Hospital In Rail Mishap

NEWBURGH

Former Kingston mayoral candidate, C. John Bechtold, Penn Central Railroad conductor, who was injured Saturday in a train derailment in New Windsor, was released from St. Luke's Hospital Sunday.

Bechtold was injured about 2 p. m. when the caboose he was riding derailed alongside River Road, New Windsor when the train crew tried to back the six-car train into the Newburgh freight yards. It was reported that the caboose almost tipped over a 15-foot drop into the Quassaick Creek.

Another Kingston resident, Brakeman C. A. Carson, described the accident saying, "We ran over something, it gave us a bump and we went up in the air. It seemed like we bounced up six or eight feet high." Bechtold was reportedly injured when the jolt knocked him against the inside walls.

Carson and Werner Senior, another brakeman from Kingston said the mishap occurred so quickly they do not know how it happened and railroad employees were unable to find any object which might have been lying across the railroad track.

Senior, who was in the caboose with Bechtold said a small bridge curb kept the caboose from toppling into the creek.

Shirley Louise Clark Weds Thomas R. Saccoman

MRS. THOMAS R. SACCOMAN

Miss Shirley Louise Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Clark of River Road, Port Ewen, became the bride of Thomas Ralph Saccoman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Saccoman, 114 Wall Street, Kingston, on Sunday, Aug. 22 at Presentation Church, Port Ewen.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. James V. Keating officiated at the double ring ceremony. Angelo Altomari Jr., organist, accompanied Floyd Light Jr. who sang traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of pink and white gladioli decorated the altar and white bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a fitted gown accented with pink satin ribbon, a high neckline, short puffed sleeves. The gown featured a long train with pink ribbon accent. A Camelot cap which tied under the chin with pink ribbon held her fingertip silk illusion veil. She carried a nosegay of pink miniature carnations, baby's breath, pink roses, daisies, pompons and ivy.

Miss Dianna V. Clark of Port Ewen was maid of honor for her sister and Mrs. Carol Bauer of Kingston served as matron of honor. Their gowns were fashioned with white lace bodices in the empire line with short puffed sleeves and pink satin buttons and ribbon. The skirts were of navy blue dotted swiss. They carried nosegays of pink, blue white pompons, daisies and carnations, accented with ivy.

Mrs. Clara Giancola of Orlando Street, Kingston, and Miss Anne Saccoman, sister of the bridegroom, Kingston, served as attendants. Their gowns were identical to those of the honor attendant's and they carried nosegays of pink and mixed flowers.

Miss Brigitte Van Kleeck, cousin of the bride, 84 Fairview Avenue, Kingston, was flower girl. She wore a gown identical in styling to those of the attendants and carried a white fireside basket of pink roses and ivy with pink ribbons.

Peter C. Delange, Lockport, and Jerry T. Englehardt, Rochester, served as best men. Ushering were Dennis Cassell, Tillson; and Barry Greco, Saugerties. Phillip Fabiano, cousin of the bridegroom, served as ringbearer.

A reception for 175 guests was held at Walnut Grove, Kingston.

For her wedding trip to Bermuda, the bride selected an aqua dress with laced belt, white accessories and a daisy corsage.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School, Robert Fiance Hair Design Institute of New York and Colonna Beauty School of Albany, is employed at Britts Beauty Salon, Kingston Plaza.

Her husband, an alumnus of KHS, was graduated in 1969 from State University of New York at Delhi where he served as vice president of Kappa Sigma Epsilon and was student senator in Hotel Men's Association. He was graduated this year from University of Denver, College of Business Administration, where he was a member of Kappa Sigma, International Social Fraternity, and Sigma Pieta, honorary professional hotel fraternity. While at Delhi and Denver he majored in Hotel and Restaurant Administration.

When they return from their wedding trip, they will reside on River Road, Port Ewen.

Shockley-Perry Nuptials

Miss Connie Lynn Shockley, daughter of Floyd Conrad Shockley of Maryland and Mrs. Betty Lee Holt of Salisbury, Md., became the bride of Louis Robert Perry Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Robert Perry Sr. of 104 Hinsdale Street, Kingston, on June 19 in the Colton Chapel at Stockton, Calif., Chaplain Brandt officiated.

The bride was escorted by Bob Miller, a friend of the couple. She wore a floor length formal wedding gown fashioned of embossed floral sheer and Venice lace with a fitted empire style bodice, high neckline and full sheer sleeves trimmed with matching Venice lace. The softly gathered skirt was highlighted with Venice lace encircling the waistline. Her illusion veil was caught to a Juliet cap of Venice lace, daisies and bridal seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white daisies with baby's breath accented with white streamers. Miss Debra Houghtaling was maid of honor, and Miss Sue Schnabel served as bridesmaid. They wore floor length gowns of powder blue chiffon and satin styled with a fitted bodice, square neckline and long sleeves. The gowns featured set-in cummerbunds of satin and cummerbund buttons at the front waistline. Matching veils served as their headpieces. Miss Houghtaling carried a nosegay of white and blue daisies with blue streamers and Miss Schnabel carried a nosegay of blue and yellow daisies with yellow streamers. Ray Jordan was best man. Ushers were Eugene Ruelle and Rick Darling.

A reception was held at the Enlisted Men's Club. The bride, a 1969 graduate of Wicomico Senior High School, Salisbury, Md., joined the U.S. Navy Waves March 6, 1970. She is stationed at Stockton, Calif. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, class of 1966, and Ulster County Community College, class of 1968, attended Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, Ill. He is a petty officer, third class, in the U.S. Navy, stationed at Stockton, Calif.

The couple took a wedding trip to Bodega Bay, Calif., and toured the Pacific coast. They are now enroute to the East coast, stopping at the home of the bride's parents in Maryland, then on to Kingston to visit family and friends before both assume new duty stationed at New London, Conn.

Soper-Nerone Wedding at St. Colman's Church

MRS. FRANCIS A. NERONE (Fitzgerald Studio)

St. Colman's Church in East Kingston was the setting for the wedding of Michelle Minnie Soper, Williamsville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everitt Merritt Soper Jr. of 35 Groff Street, Kingston, and Francis Aloysius Nerone, Amherst, stepson of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Donnelly of Mary Avenue, Lake Katrine. He is the son of the late Frank A. Nerone and Mrs. Mary Tiano Nerone of Kingston.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. T. R. Mullins officiated at the double ring ceremony on Saturday, Aug. 21. Mrs. Joseph Apa, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. Gold altar vases were arranged with white gladioli and chrysanthemums and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected a gown of Irish linen fashioned with an empire bodice and abbreviated sleeves of Venice lace. A wide panel of lace extended from the neckline to the hem which was edged with narrow lace and swept back into a chapel length circular train. She wore a Camelot cap designed to match her gown to which was shirred a triple tiered silk illusion veil. She carried a stylized cascade of miniature white carnations, pink roses, baby's breath and ivy.

Miss Marsha Soper, sister of the bride, Kingston, was maid of honor in an aqua nylon sheer pinstriped gown styled in an empire A-line. Venice lace accented the ruffled neckline, bodice, hemline, and sleeves. She carried a colonial nosegay of aqua miniature carnations and baby's breath with white ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Miss Marlena Soper, sister of the bride, Groff Street, Kingston; Miss Mary Ann Nerone, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Kathy Donnelly, step-sister of the bridegroom; Mary Avenue, Lake Katrine. Their rainbow colored gowns were fashioned identically to that worn by the honor attendant. They carried colonial nosegays of miniature carnations to match their gowns, baby's breath, and white ribbons.

John D. Harris of South Bend, Ind., was best man. Ushers were Edward Soper, brother of the bride, Groff Street, Kingston; Robert Nerone, cousin of the bridegroom, 80 Yeoman Street, Kingston; and Fred Magovern, 59 Chestnut Street, Garden City, L.I.

A reception for 125 guests was held at the Capri '400' Restaurant in Port Ewen.

The bride, a graduate of Kingston High School and State University College at Buffalo, is employed as a speech clinician in the Williamsville Central Schools.

Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School and Manhattan College, is employed as a pollution control engineer for New York State Department of Environmental Conservation.

When they return from their wedding trip, the couple will reside at Williamsville, N.Y.

Disagreement... Right From Dog's Mouth

DEAR ABBY: I can't remember when I read anything more sickening than that letter about the woman whose poodle licked a 4-year-old child on the mouth. When the child's mother asked the poodle owner to please keep her dog away from the child, the poodle owner said her dog's mouth was cleaner than a human's, and she hoped her dog wouldn't catch anything from the child.

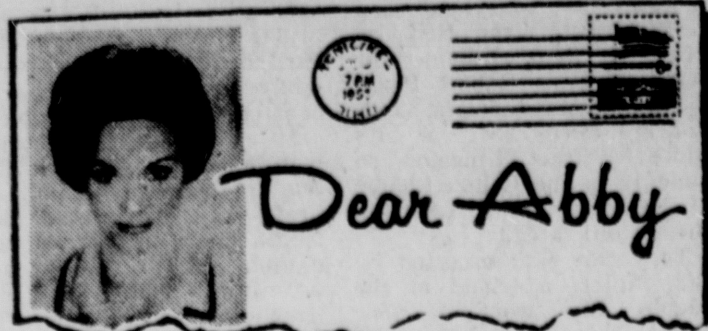

So help me, some people are nuts. Please tell that dizzy dame who owned the poodle if she's so up tight about the dog, she should muzzle the baby.

NAUSEATED IN OMAHA

DEAR ABBY: That lady was right! A dog's mouth is cleaner than a human's. You have never seen a dog with rotten teeth and you never will. I would sooner give my dog a lick of my ice cream cone than you.

some kind of trip? Did you say a dog's mouth is cleaner than a human's? I am a faithful reader but I am...

DISAPPOINTED IN YOU

DEAR DISAPPOINTED:

It's true. The bacterial and other germ counts are lower in dogs' mouths than a humans'.

DEAR ABBY: All dog lovers have a screw loose. Listen to this: When my husband was in the service, his sister invited me to stay with her because her husband was also away in the service. We were going to share one large double bed until I discovered she let her 60-pound Labrador sleep with her. I gave her a choice — the dog or me. She chose the dog. I never did stay with her and our relationship has been very cool ever since.

NO DOG LOVER IN BOSTON

DEAR ABBY: I suppose your readers thought you slipped your lid when you confirmed the statement a dog's mouth was cleaner than a human's. Well, I can confirm your statement and I speak from experience.

I was playing handball, and in a scuffle I accidentally bit my tongue badly. I was hospitalized for several days, during which I was injected with every kind of serum known to man to prevent tetanus.

I always kept my mouth and teeth clean and was a nut on body hygiene. The doctor shocked me when he said, "We can't take any chances with a human bite. There are more germs in the mouth of a human than in the mouth of any animal."

PROTECTED AGAINST MYSELF

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and my boy friend is 16. Before we started going together (just a few months ago) Burton went steady with a girl named Jenny for three years. He broke up with Jenny because he liked me more.

Last weekend I went to the family cabin with Burton and his parents. I had a very nice time except that Burton's parents kept calling me Jenny. It got very embarrassing, but I didn't feel like correcting them, so I just let it go.

I guess it didn't bother Burton, or he didn't feel like correcting them either, because he didn't say anything. What should have been done in a case like that?

NOT JENNY

DEAR NOT: Since Burton didn't set his parents straight, you should have. (Respectfully, of course.)

CONFIDENTIAL TO JOEY: If your wife really doesn't care how late you come home it's later than you think.

What's your problem?

You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope. For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Judges Are Named For Cooking Contest

Judges have been announced for the Men's Cooking and Baking Contest at the September 18th Apple Festival of Port Ewen United Methodist Church. They are Mrs. Martin Oberkirch of Ulster Park; Dr. Paul Allen, district superintendent of United Methodist Church, Hudson North District; and Miss Joan L. Woinski, reporter at The Daily Freeman.

Judging will take place in three categories: baked goods, casseroles, miscellaneous. Entry blanks may be obtained at the church in Port Ewen or from Mrs. Harriette Montafia of Port Ewen.

Items for the contest will be received at the church between 4 and 6 p.m. on September 18. Mrs. George Castor is in charge.

Entry blanks should be sent in immediately. Each item entered must be accompanied by a typed or printed recipe. More than one entry is permitted and entries are not restricted to items made only with apples as one of the ingredients.

Gilded mixing spoons will be awarded to first, second and third place winners.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE ARTHUR'S ADAPTABILITY

Dear Folks:

We have received many letters from people with arthritis and admire their ability to cope with their infirmities.

Here are two letters we would like to share with you:

"Dear Heloise:

"So many of your hints have been helpful to me.

"I have arthritis in my knees and it is very painful to go up and down the stairs the conventional way. So I go down the stairs backwards — and go both up and down on 'all fours' like a puppy dog!

"I guess a different set of muscles are used, anyway it has been a lifesaver for me."

Mrs. N.H. Smith

"Dear Heloise:

"Being an arthritic has made me find easier and more simple ways to do my work.

"Carrying a laundry basket was almost impossible since I have to use crutches, a walker or a cane.

"One day, I decided to try using our plastic picnic basket. It's really surprising how much this lightens the load. Hope someone else can use the idea."

Love, Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have very long arms and always have difficulty when I buy long-sleeved blouses. Those long sleeves are just never quite long enough.

I recently got two beautiful blouses on sale and sure enough the same old problem. I couldn't beat the thought of parting with them so I bought some lace about six inches wide, and cut the sleeves off one blouse just below the elbows. Then turned them under about one-eighth of an inch on both sleeves and stitched the lace on top. Now my sleeves are plenty long and my blouse is beautiful.

For the other blouse I bought braid three inches wide — cut the sleeves off and inserted the braid, then sewed the cut-off portion of the sleeves onto the braid. In other words, I made an insert on both sleeves. It was plenty long and twice as pretty.

Mrs. E.J.

You are not alone in your problem. I have a friend who is constantly trying to solve this dilemma. She very often puts elastic in her blouse sleeves and wears them as push-up sleeves. I'll have to pass along your advice. Thanks.

Heloise

LETTER OF LOVE

Dear Heloise:

When I got married one of the gifts from my mother was a copy of "Heloise's Housekeeping Hints." And, to me, that has been the most useful of all my gifts.

The cover is gone now, but the pages are all there.

Mary Lynch

Dear Heloise:

I'm elderly and have trouble with dry itchy skin.

I saw a little item in your column about substituting a long-handled plastic fork as a back scratcher.

Well, I didn't have a fork, but tried a turning spatula. What a find!

Now I put the creams used for softening skin on the end of the spatula... it reaches way down below my shoulder bones and I am able to spread it where I want it to go.

Mr. J.E.J.

Dear Folks:

Whether you have a dishwasher or not, here is an idea for those extra dishes to drain on and especially pots and pans.

Use a shelf from your oven and lay it on the drainboard! Holds much more than a dish-drainer. I also learned that if you put a newspaper under it that the water won't run like a creek emptying into the ocean and all over everything.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

For years I have made it a habit to keep a box of baking soda handy near the range to extinguish small grease fires.

I have neglected, however, to clearly mark this box FIRE or to cover it in red paper.

This recently almost proved disastrous. My husband came home for lunch and got a piece of ham out of the fridge, put it in the frying pan and turned up the heat. I was out back so he came looking for me and forgot his meat.

By the time we noticed the smoke pouring from the house I ran in and grabbed, first thing, for my trusty box of soda, but in the excitement and heavy smoke, it took several seconds to locate it as it blended too well with other items on the cabinet shelf.

Well, we were lucky this time, but needless to say—from now on I'm wrapping my soda box in bright red paper and writing FIRE on it in big white letters.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(© 1971, Emily Post Institute, Inc.)
DEAR MRS. POST: My husband and I are going to the wedding of the daughter of a very good friend of ours. What do we say to the bride and groom when we meet them in the receiving line, and after the reception before we leave?

Mrs. M.: These are only suggestions, of course, and you must put them in your own words, or vary them to fit the circumstances. In the receiving line one says:

To the bride — "You look just beautiful, and we're so happy for you," or, "We just want to wish you all the happiness in the world."

To the groom — "Congratulations! And best of luck."

Do not carry on a long conversation and hold up the line behind you.

After the reception, say to the bride's parents (who are host and hostess): "Goodbye and thank you for including us. It was a perfectly lovely wedding and reception, and Janie looked beautiful." You may or may not say goodbye to the bride and groom, depending on your relationship, the time you leave, etc.

DEAR MRS. POST: I am going to be in a friend's wedding in November. I was planning to have my long hair cut in a few weeks. The bride doesn't want me to because she has long hair and thinks the wedding would be prettier if we all had long hair. Since she asked me to be in the bridal party thinking my hair would be long, should I abide by her wishes?

Sharon: Dear Sharon: Since you say you were planning to have your hair cut "in a few weeks," I assume you are not in a great rush. Therefore, why don't you just have it trimmed a bit and wait for a real cut until after the wedding? Personally, I don't think the bride's hairstyle need be similar, but if the bride cares very much, you will make her much happier by going along with her wishes.

My booklet "How to Plan and Budget Your Wedding" is ideal for brides-to-be, their fiancés and parents in helping to prepare for the "perfect" wedding. To get a copy, send 35 cents in coins, to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of The Daily Freeman.

DEAR ABBY: Do all husbands pick and nag at their wives over every imperfection?

My husband nagged me until I lost 20 pounds. Now he complains because my bust went down 2 inches.

That wouldn't be so bad, but his timing is rotten. He picks our most intimate moments, when he should be telling me something he likes about me, to bring up his complaints.

Doesn't a man know that this turns a woman off?

DEAR TURNED: If he doesn't, he should. And if he knows, and does it anyway, he should be turned down.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

Simple, Very Sophisticated: ... Stroganoff Meat Balls

Meat balls are no longer just meat balls. There are tomato-sauced meat balls for spaghetti...curried meat balls...sweet-sour Polynesian meat balls...barbecued meat balls...Swedish meat balls...and the latest variation, Easy Stroganoff Meat Balls.

With a sour cream-mushroom sauce, these tender, well seasoned meat balls quickly climb from the class of ordinary to sophisticated. Dried dill weed, instant minced onion and garlic powder are handy spice-shelf seasoners. And the addition of quick or old fashioned oats to the ground beef mixture locks in natural meat juices, making the meat balls more moist and flavorful. The sauce couldn't be simpler: just pour a can of golden mushroom soup over the meat balls, bake, then blend in sour cream just before serving.

Serve Easy Stroganoff Meat Balls over hot rice, and accompany with buttered cooked carrots, lettuce-tomato salad and crispy bread sticks. Milk and tea or coffee, plus pear tarts or apple turnovers for dessert, complete this nutritionally well balanced dinner.

When planning daily menus, remember to use the Basic Four Food Groups as a guide to good nutrition. Four or more servings of Breads and Cereals, two or more servings of Meats or alternates, four or more servings of Fruits and Vegetables, plus at least two cups of Milk for everyone, should be included in each day's menus.

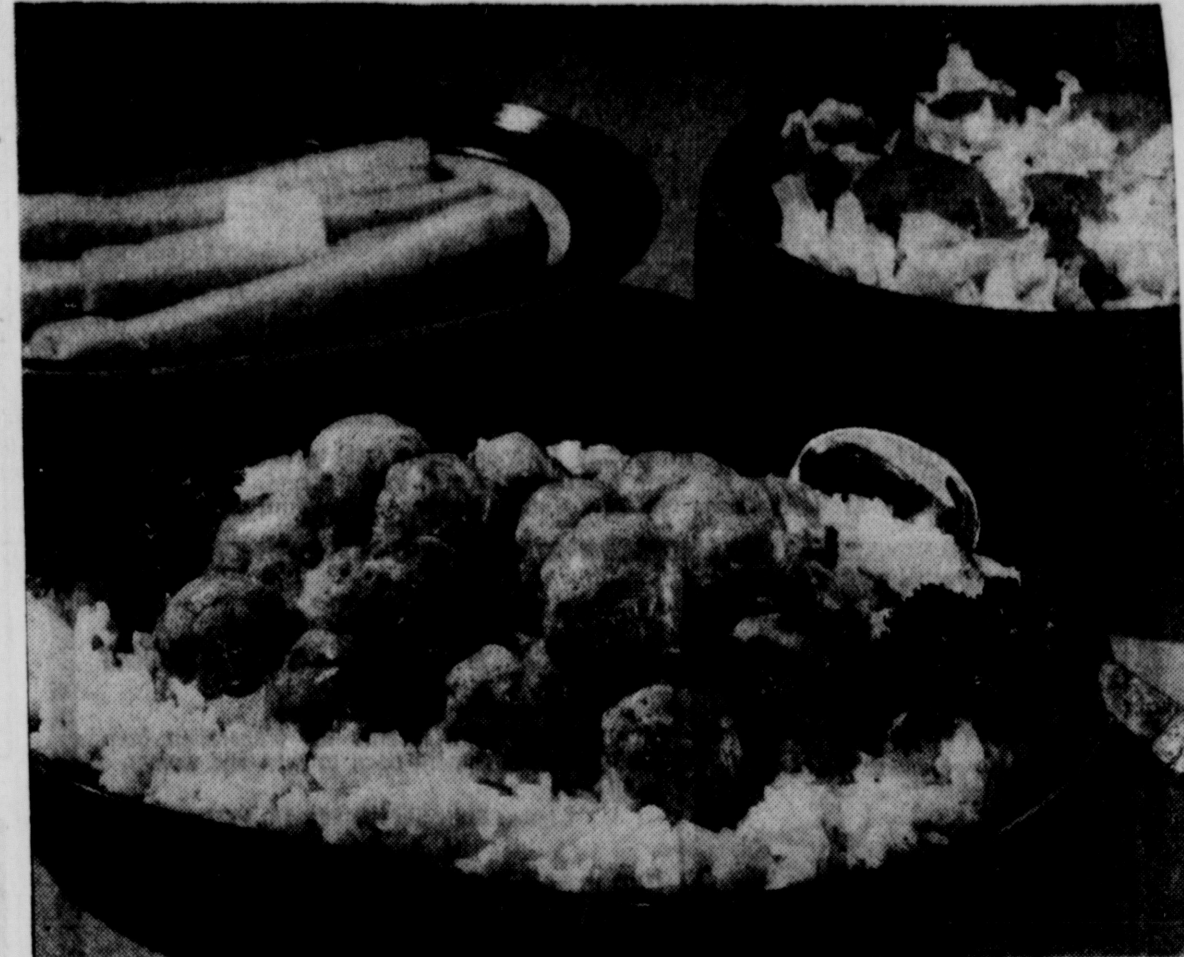

Easy Stroganoff Meat Balls

Makes Six Servings

One tablespoon instant minced onion
One-half cup milk
One and one-half pound ground beef
Two-thirds cup quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
One teaspoon salt

One fourth teaspoon pepper
One fourth teaspoon dried dill weed
One eighth teaspoon garlic powder
One egg, beaten
One ten and one-half ounce can condensed golden mushroom soup
One-half cup dairy sour cream
Hot, cooked rice
Heat over to moderate (350 degree F.) Combine onion and milk; set aside. Combine ground beef, oats, salt, pepper, dill weed, garlic powder, egg, and onion-milk mixture. Shape to form 24 meat balls. Place in 10 inch shallow casserole or oven-proof skillet.

Pour soup over meat balls. Bake in preheated oven (350 degree F.) about 35 minutes. Remove from oven. Blend in sour cream. Serve immediately over rice.

EASY STROGANOFF MEAT BALLS are featured in a nutritious dinner menu. A simple mushroom soup-sour cream sauce dresses up the tasty, well seasoned meat balls.

Look Here Mrs. Homemaker

Here are ways to reduce water pollution in your home, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

Use laundry and dishwashing compounds as directed.

Run automatic washers and dishwashers only with full loads.

Avoid using your kitchen garbage disposal unnecessarily; it adds a heavy organic load on your sewage treatment plant.

Taking a shower, rather than bath, conserves water, providing you don't stand an hour with water running.

Don't use a flush toilet to dispose of a tissue or cigarette butt; each cycle uses three gallons of water.

Have faucet and other leaks repaired promptly.

Limit car washing. If necessary hand wash by bucket or use pistol nozzle on garden hose.

Don't pamper grass and landscaping with lavish water.

ering; replant to hardier stock where possible.

Don't dump used engine oil, paint, solvents, pesticides and the like into the sewage system; ask local authorities for alternate means of disposal.

Remember, water is precious and must be used again and again. Efforts to see that it leaves your home in as clean a condition as possible are more than just courtesy to the next user; it will lessen the load on your sewage treatment plant and help hold down taxes for that purpose.

Trying to stretch your food dollar? asks Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist. Have you ever had this experience? You've read the advertisements in last night's paper—you've made a shopping list that's included some of the food ad "specials"—you have even cut out the coupons.

The only time you have to shop is after work or when your husband can take care of the children in the evening.

To your disappointment the items you hoped to purchase are out-of-stock.

Don't panic! Most food markets will offer customers a "rain check" that entitles them to the "special" price on out-of-stock items at a later date when supplies are replenished.

BARD COLLEGE FIELD STATION ON THE HUDSON

Bard College Research Station ... Visible Step in Ecology Study

By TIM SCHUSTER

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON

A small A-frame laboratory is rising out of the dense woods lining the South Bay of the Hudson River behind Bard College, a symbol of much hope on the part of the administration and Dr. David Young.

For the field research station is the first and most visible step of an ecology study program at the college which begins this month with two new courses of study and a research grant, and which college officials plan to snowball into a permanent part of the curriculum.

The Bard College Field Station was conceived last year and begun this July. The Freeman toured the wood and shingle dwelling with Dr. Young, the ecologist in charge of the program.

The station sits on the side of a wooded slope, about 100 feet from the bay, with every effort made not to disturb the immediate environment.

Tall trees crowd close to the building and the area torn up by bulldozers for construction and laying of service lines will be reseeded. The Sawkill rushes to join the Hudson River within sight.

A large room is the laboratory and classroom on the second floor, with an office, lavatory, and bedroom behind. A large open deck facing the river is separated from the interior of the building by a wall of thermopane windows. Storage area for two canoes, another motor-powered boat, and supplies is downstairs.

Dr. Young, recently from a teaching position in Florida, was enthusiastic over the prospects of studying the area from the field station, sharing the experience with the students, and perhaps unearthing some new knowledge about river pollution.

Two courses to begin this year are entitled Principles of Ecology in the fall and Aquatic Ecology in the spring. Both will be taught at the field station.

And Dr. Young noted that many students will undoubtedly undertake independent study, especially during the winter field period.

The only access to the station is by foot along the Sawkill from a point about halfway from the main campus. The present road, being used by construction trucks, will be closed off.

Special

Dr. Young said it was hoped the area will be open to the general public, and that the related problems in the area might be aided through consultation with himself. "We also hope to enhance community-college relations," he asserted.

And he said that the program is emphasizing the science of ecology now, but it is hoped that it may be broadened to deal with environmental problems in general.

And while the biological, as well as chemical, mathematical, and physical aspects are being stressed, the future will probably find the program endeavoring to implicate social and economic factors of ecology-related problems.

Specific goals of the program for this year, besides education, include trying to find out what influences the North and South Bay of the river have on resident animals and migrating fowl, and also trying to understand how the natural purification of the river occurs.

Dr. Young said that he thought bays and marshes act as a kind of water quality purifier, and it is common knowledge that they act as breeding grounds and nurseries for aquatic life.

The area was judged particularly good for this kind of study for three reasons: the water is relatively clean; there is an abundance of flora and fauna; it is an intertidal area.

Another possible practical application of knowledge gained through this type of study would be to update state laws governing pollution.

By understanding exactly what affects the purity of the river and the organisms indigenous to it, other factors in governing pollution might be legislated.

At present, according to Dr. Young, such things as BOD (Biological Oxygen Demand) and several types of chemical pollution are realized as dangerous.

Bard owns 550 acres of Hudson River shoreline including a section of the Sawkill, other streams, swamps and marshes, tidal flats, extensive woodlands and upland pastures.

The waters and bays of this particular section of the Hudson have been identified as a principal spawning ground for striped bass, shad, and sea sturgeon, and as the habitat of a dozen species of waterfowl as well as a wide variety of land birds.

There are especially good opportunities to study the life-pattern of the osprey and the complex behavior of the red-winged blackbird.

And as an added bonus, Dr. Young agreed that the station might prove an excellent haven from the sometimes hectic pace of life on campus and in the rest of the world.

Credit-Bearing Courses

Late Registration Continues at UCCC

STONE RIDGE
Late registration for the Fall Semester credit bearing courses offered by Ulster County Community College will continue through Thursday for part-time students and through Friday for full-time students.

Prospective part-time students who have failed to register by mail or at personal registration Sept. 1 or 2 may register in the Clinton Administration Building at the Stone Ridge campus between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 7, 8 or 9.

Additionally, students who wish to register for classes being held in the extension center at Kingston High School may register with Mrs. Harriet Katatsky, the Ulster counselor, who will be on duty from 6 to 9 p.m. in the Kingston High School Guidance Office.

On Wednesday evening students who wish to register for the General Psychology class scheduled to be held Wednesday evenings in Ontario may register at the Ontario Central School prior to the start of the class which is scheduled for Room 118 in the Boiceville location. The Psychology offering in Boiceville will be continued only if additional registrations are received for that particular section.

Credit-free registrations are still being accepted daily from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. at the Center for Continuing Education on the Stone Ridge Campus and by mail. Interested persons may also register for the credit-free offerings at the late registration provided for credit courses. Credit-free courses are scheduled to start the week of Sept. 20.

Several of these offerings have not reached the minimum registration numbers required to run them while others have only one or two seats available. Additional details regarding credit-free offerings may be obtained by calling the Center for Continuing Education at 687-7621.

The Senate Shop, the College bookstore, located in new quarters at Vanderlyn Hall, will be open both day and evening hours. The schedule for the week of Sept. 7 is 8:30 a.m.-4 p.m. and 6:30-8:30 p.m.

Multi-Media Members Plan Meeting Series

KINGSTON presented at each meeting. All Staff members of the Multi-Media Center of the Kingston Consolidated Schools have planned a series of meetings throughout the district to explain the special reading instruction program.

Mrs. Frieda Dingee, director of the Multi-Media Center, explained in a letter to parents of children receiving special reading instruction, that the pupils will receive special instruction in their own school and some of those tested during the summer will be on the waiting list until there is a vacancy.

Because of the large number who sent their children to the center for testing during the summer, individual parental conferences are not possible, it was stressed. Mrs. Dingee and Mrs. Marguerita Mahoney, school nurse teacher, will conduct area meetings for the purpose of answering such questions as:

What are some reasons for reading failures? Why is the need for special help increasing? What should the general public know about coping with these children who have average or above average intelligence? How were these children selected for special reading programs? What tests were given and how will these children be instructed? What can parents do to help these children? What are the results of my child's tests? Meetings are scheduled as follows:

Thursday, Sept. 9, at Chambers including Lake Katrine, Brigham and Zena.

Thursday, Sept. 16, at George Washington including Edson, Hurley and No. 8.

Wednesday, Sept. 22, at J. F. Kennedy including Meagher, Sophie Finn, St. Mary's, St. Peter's and Immaculate Conception.

Wednesday, Oct. 6, at Anna Devine including Port Ewen and Tilton.

Thursday, Oct. 7, at George Washington (afternoon).

Since public transportation is not available in the evening, one meeting is scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 7 at 1:30 p.m. in the George Washington School auditorium.

Seaver Heads Towards 20

IN THIS CORNER — Phils Catcher Tim McCarver lands a right to the chin of Cardinals' Lou Brock in the fourth inning at Philadelphia Monday after Brock made a remark to McCarver when two consecutive pitches from Pitcher Manny Muniñiz narrowly missed Brock. McCarver was thrown out of the game. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

MONTREAL (AP) — The New York Mets may not be going anywhere, but Tom Seaver is.

Seaver, the right-handed ace of the Mets pitching staff, is headed towards the magic 20-win circle—and if he pitches anything like he did against Montreal Monday night, there'll be no stopping him.

Seaver, the 1969 Cy Young Award winner, raised his record to 17-8 Monday night by registering his fourth shutout of the season, a 7-0 masterpiece over the Expos.

He limited the Expos to just two hits—a single by Ron Hunt in the first inning and a double by Gary Sutherland in the fifth—and two walks, while striking out 12. The nine scoreless innings lowered his league-leading earned run average to 1.85.

"I saw the wind blowing in here during batting practice," Seaver said after the game. "so I kept thinking about making them hit the ball on the ground. When it's blowing like that, you don't want too many balls in the air."

What are his chances for the Cy Young award?

"That depends on how the writers vote," Seaver replied. "I would be nice to win, but I'll have a lot of competition from Ferguson Jenkins, Dock Ellis and Steve Carlton."

Seaver is the league leader in ERA, but he would rather have the wins. "It would be more satisfying for me to win 20 any time," he declared.

The Mets gave Seaver all the support he needed in the second inning, when they reached Montreal starter Ernie McAnally for three runs. Seaver helped his own cause with a two-run single in that uprising.

New York added four more runs in the ninth, but by that time Seaver had made it perfectly clear that he was applying his own personal freeze—on runs by the opposing team.

The Pittsburgh Pirates are better off than they were one year ago and the Los Angeles Dodgers are better off than they were one day ago.

As a result of Labor Day activity in the National League, the Pirates hold a seven-game lead in the East Division while the Dodgers trail San Francisco by the same amount in the West.

Pittsburgh swept a double-header from the Chicago Cubs 4-1 and 10-5 while Los Angeles trimmed San Francisco 5-2. Elsewhere, St. Louis split with Philadelphia, winning 6-3 and losing 2-1; Houston beat Atlanta 6-4 and Cincinnati nipped San Diego 1-0.

Nelson Briles checked the Cubs on three in Pittsburgh's opener, the first complete game by a Pirate hurler in 16 starts, and hot-hitting Rennie Stennett set up two runs with a double and triple.

Gene Alley, Stennett and Clines singled in the third inning of the nightcap, tying the score 2-2, and Roberto Clemente was purposely passed so southpaw Ken Holtzman could face left-swinging Willie Stargell.

Stargell ruined that strategy with his 44th home run of the season and second grand slam, fourth-inning fight in the first game between Philadelphia catcher Tim McCarver and St. Louis outfielder Lou Brock, for Cubs, who dropped into fourth place 12 games back.

A year ago, the Bucs had a two-game lead and went on to win the division by five. Ron Stone's sixth-inning sacrifice fly gave the Phillies their second game triumph over the Cardinals after the Redbirds took the opener behind Bob Gibson on the strength of a six-run outburst in the third inning, capped by Joe Hague's three-run home run.

But the big news was a mound—but McCarver intercepted him, saying, "He's only a kid." "Well," answered Brock, "if it happens again I'll fight you."

"I don't go for these talking-shoving matches," explained McCarver, who punched Brock twice before the umpires pulled him away and was ejected from the game for his trouble.

Afterwards, both parties were willing to forgive and forget. Home runs by Steve Garvey and Maury Wills helped the Dodgers take the opener of a must series from the Giants.

Don Sutton allowed four hits and struck out 10 in seven innings before Jim Brewer finished it.

Garvey hit a two-run homer off John Cumberland in the second inning and Wills, who also homered Sunday, hammered his third of the season and only the 20th of his career in the sixth. Two more runs crossed in the seventh when Wills singled and the ball skipped past left fielder Ken Henderson.

Houston rookie Ray Busse doubled home a run in each of two early three-run outbursts as the Astros downed Atlanta behind rookie Scipio Spinks. His main trouble came from Earl Williams, who accounted for all the Braves' runs with a single and his 30th home run. Wayne Simpson and Clay Carroll teamed for a three-hit performance against the Padres while Tony Perez drove in the Reds' lone run against Dave Roberts with a sixth-inning sacrifice fly.

Yanks Rip Sox Twice

By COMBINED SERVICES

Roy White tied an American League record for sacrifice flies Monday while Stan Bahnsen shut out a bunch of minor leaguers masquerading as the Boston Red Sox.

A holiday crowd of 21,490, putting the Yankees over the one million mark for the 26th consecutive year-saw the home team sweep Boston, 5-3 and 3-0.

climbing to within three games of the third place Red Sox in the American League East.

Elsewhere, Mickey Lolich won his 23rd game as Detroit beat Washington, 3-0; Baltimore split with Cleveland winning 10-5 before losing the nightcap, 1-0; California nipped Oakland, 4-2; Chicago defeated the Twins, 6-3, then lost to Minnesota, 10-3; and Kansas City swept a pair from Milwaukee, 4-3 and 6-4.

Ron Swoboda won the Yankees' opener with a two-run pinch single in the eighth inning, then saved it with a spectacular catch in the ninth as he crashed into the right field stands to rob Reggie Smith of a game-tying homer.

They made it a sweep as Horace Clarke snapped a scoreless tie in the eighth with a two-run triple off Red Sox rookie John Curtis. Bahnsen finished with a six-hitter for New York.

White's sacrifice fly in the second game was his 16th of the season tying a 57-year-old league mark. The major league record is 19.

Lolich joined Vida Blue for the league lead in wins and complete games (23 and 24 respectively) but says the A's hurler has the edge in the award races.

"Because of his popularity," Lolich said of Blue, "he's bound to win all the awards. You can't give the Most Valuable Player award to one pitcher and give the Cy Young award for the best pitcher to another. You just can't do it."

Kingston Moose Loses in Finals, 10-8

SIDNEY here over the holiday weekend, play in the championships only. Still another Kingston team has come close in a state tournament to meet bitter defeat in the final game. This time it was the Moose frontation with Poughkeepsie All-Star squad which swept to and it amounted to a tourna- three victories before dropping ment oddity in that 16 teams Francello lined a two-run hom- the finale to Poughkeepsie, 10-8, came from across the state to er.

But Poughkeepsie rallied for and Al Johnson and Van Tassel pitch to the Poughkeepsie slug- three in the third and four in both knocked out base hits to ger who was connecting for the second time in the battle. The game remained dead. Bill Foster, who struck out 11 locked until the top of the seventh. Tom Latonyaw singled on to pickup the championship but McWeeny got two out and Things started out on a promising note for Kingston when it scored four times its first at bat against Rochester in game one. The Colonials added a fifth run in the third, then held the upstaters at bay in the last frame. Johnson had three hits in the contest including a two-run circuit clout. Tiano pitched a six-hitter, fanning ten to win. Next came Dunkirk and this one went seven as the teams battled to a 2-2 tie through regulation time, all the runs coming in the first. The decisive blow - was the two-run homer by Loeffler. Earlier Turk's homer had accounted for the first Kingston tally. Cole fanned 16 and allowed just four hits to earn the victory. The semi-finals, too, went seven with Kingston twice having to come from behind to beat Owego.

A first inning homer by Cole gave Kingston and pitcher Tiano a 1-0 lead. And it stood up all the way until the sixth when Owego rallied for two runs. With its back to the wall, Kingston tied the contest on Johnson's solo homer.

Allison Is 7-for-10 After 'Southern' Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Bobby Allison outdueled Richard Petty to win the Southern 500 at Darlington, S.C., his seventh victory in 10 major NASCAR Grand National events. His Labor Day payoffs of $26,245 raised the Hueytown, Ala. native's earnings for the year to $197,000.

Allison's red and gold Mercury led the final 75 miles of the race. He travelled the last 100 miles without a pit stop and was nearly out of gas at the finish. His average speed was a record 131.798 miles per hour.

Mark Donohue, who has won seven of nine Trans-Am races this year, drove his American Motors Javelin to victory in the Wolverine Trans-Am at Michigan International Speedway Monday.

Donohue lapped everybody in field except second place finisher George Follmer to take the $4,000 first prize. Donohue's average time was $5.32 m.p.h. Joe Leonard earned himself a pile of money Sunday.

Leonard, 37, captured the first prize of $154,436 by winning the California 500 at Ontario Speedway, the world's second richest auto race. The big paycheck raised the San Jose, Calif., veteran's earnings

COMEBACK KICK — Chris Evert, 16, charges from behind to beat Francoise Durr of France 2-6, 6-2, 6-3 in the fourth round of the U. S. Open Tennis Championships Monday. Although the match was poor tennis, with neither player attacking the net, the emotional level was high as Miss Evert, who had to come from behind to beat Mary Ann Eisel on Saturday, again rallied after a weak first set. Tidewater in Sweep Tidewater completed a sweep of Charleston and Rochester needed four games to get past Syracuse as both clubs moved into the final round of the International League playoffs Monday.

The two teams will battle for the Governor's Cup with the winner playing the champions of the American Association in the Junior World Series.

The Tides clubbed Charleston, 6-4, to complete the sweep of the best-of-five series. Rochester rebounded from Sunday night's defeat to trounce Syracuse, 11-2, behind the six-hit pitching of George Manz and eliminate the defending Junior World Series champions. Syracuse, which defeated Omaha of the AA in five games to gain the world championship last season, only managed to finish fourth in the IL this year. But Rochester, eliminated from the playoffs in the semi-final round last season, proved too much for the Chiefs as Terry Crowley homered to pace the 12 hit Red Wing assault.

Tidewater rallied for three runs in the first inning and was never headed as it defeated Charleston. Don Rose allowed only four hits in gaining the complete game victory. Charleston starter and loser Barry Moore failed to survive the third inning in suffering the defeat.

Cowan's Eagle 'Like a Mile'

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) "How far was it?" Gary Cowan was asked. "About a mile," he replied, breaking into a big grin.

Cowan had a right to smile. The 32-year-old Canadian stroked a 135 yard nine-iron shot into the final hole for an eagle two that gave him the U.S. Amateur Golf Championship Saturday.

Cowan led by one stroke over Eddie Pearce, 19-year-old Wake Forest sophomore, with the last hole to play. Pearce, of Temple Terrace, Fla., had finished the four day, 72 hole grind at one-under-par 283. He stood at the 18th hole watching Cowan play.

Cowan's drive went into the right rough, the ball running through a sandtrap and landing a yard short of forcing the Kitchener, Ont., insurance broker to chip into the fairway.

Cowan took out a nine iron and hit the ball cleanly. Cowan watched the ball sail over a hill and hit the front of the huge 18th green at the Wilmington Country Club.

"I thought it was going too fast and I said to myself, 'Don't go over the green.' Then people started oohing and aahing and I thought it wasn't even to the pin yet."

Cowan shot 70-71-69-70-280 to record his second U.S. Amateur championship. He won in 1966 in a playoff over Deane Beaman at the Merion, Pa., Golf Club. He is the first to win the title twice since the tournament was switched from match to medal play in 1965. It was the 11th time a foreigner walked off with Uncle Sam's most prestigious amateur golf title. Marvin "Vinny" Giles, a three-time runnerup, finished third with a final round 69 for a 284.

Jim Sauter, Necedah, Wis., captured the North Star 500-lap race for IMCA late model stock cars Monday at the Minnesota State Fair in St. Paul.

Regional Title To Poughkeepsie NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Poughkeepsie beat Middletown 5-1 Monday for the American Softball Association's Eastern Regional Championship.

The Poughkeepsie team will now go to Springfield, Mo., for the national championship playoffs which begin Friday.

The winners scored two runs in the third inning to overcome a brief Middletown lead and make the score 2-1. Ray McCann struck out seven batters in the final four innings after he replaced starter Dan Brandon. McCann got the win.

Mellon Unlocks Key To Weekend Mint

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Paul Mellon found a Key to The Mint and collected $100,000 for his Rockey Stable in thoroughbred horse racing over the holiday weekend.

Key to The Mint, a Mellon two-year-old, started it by winning the fifth race at Belmont Saturday and earning $5,700.

That same day his Run the Gantlet and Fort Marcy finished first and third in the Kelly-Olympic Handicap at Atlantic City and between them earned $25,387.

On Monday, Mellon's Farewell Party beat Protanto by a neck in the $114,100 Governor's Cup at Belmont and collected $68,460.

The rest of the 100 grand came from the third place finish of Christmas Wish in the second division of the Margate Handicap at Atlantic City. Mellon's Canterbury Tale finished second in the first division of the Margate, but was disqualified and placed fifth.

Young Bobby Woodhouse was the winning jockey on both Run the Gantlet and Farewell Party.

Farewell Party, the only 3-year-old in the Governor's Cup and lightweight at 109 pounds, paid off at $36.60 for $2 after surviving a claim of foul by Larry Adams who was third on a 60-1 long shot. Wig-

Out. It was the first stakes victory for Farewell Party who ran the 1 1/4 miles in 1:47 1/5. Kittiwake, $6, and Cyalo, $51.20, won the split divisions of the Margate while Northfields, the $4.60 favorite, took the Hawthorne Derby by two lengths over Two Rounds.

Impressive Style, $11.20, won the Del Mar Debutante and Esquivira, $6.40, captured the San Joaquin Handicap at Bay Meadows.

Hasty Judge, $7.80, beat Mrs. Cornwallis and the favored Brenda Beauty in one division of the Blue Hen Stakes at Delaware.

In the other, Misty Bryn, $8.40, was declared the winner after Apple Jackie who crossed the wire first, was disqualified and placed third.

In other Labor Day features Action Getter, $9.20, scored in the Irving Gushen Memorial Handicap at Rockingham Park and L'Aiglon, the $3.20, favorite, romped home by eight lengths in the Labor Day Purse at Narragansett Park.

And in the $502,000 All-American Quarter Horse Futurity at Ruidoso Downs, billed as the country's richest horse race, Mr. Kid Charge won the $200,841 first prize.

Owned by Will Whitehead of Del Rio, Tex., Mr. Kid Charge ran the 400 yards in a record 19.65 seconds.

Seniors Lure Bill Odeneal

WOODSTOCK
There comes that time when even the finest of amateur golfers inevitably reach the age of 50.

It has happened to Dr. William T. (Bill) Odeneal, a member of the athletic staff at State University College at New Paltz. And the crack amateur has responded in good style. He has filed his first entry blank for the Ulster County Senior Golf Championships scheduled Sept. 12 at Woodstock Country Club.

Odeneal, former golf coach at Florida State University, told A.J. (Tony) DeLisio, tournament director that he was looking forward to his debut in the Seniors.

"It's a fine golf tournament and I know I'll have a lot of fun," said Odeneal. DeLisio responded by saying, "The Seniors are very proud to have a player of Prof. Odeneal's stature in the field. It adds a great deal of prestige to the event."

Odeneal has been a tremendous player through three decades and is still capable of superb golf. He has tied for second place two straight years in the Woodstock Open, with a 67 in 1971 and 69 in 1970.

In Herdgen tournament play, he was tied for second place in 1970 and placed third this year.

Phil Coletti, the Woodstock Country Club mixologist, is the defending champion in Class A. With the deadline scheduled midnight tonight, a total of 94 entries have been filed. The maximum number of entries to be accepted is 100, DeLisio said.

DeLisio also clarified the handicap policy for the tournament. "Players who have computed their handicaps on anything less than 18-hole rounds will be eligible only for "gross prizes," said the Seniors president.

"The Seniors tournament does not wish to discriminate against non-affiliated players," DeLisio explained, "but handicaps for the Seniors must be computed in accordance with USGA rules which do not recognize nine-hole scores for purposes of handicapping."

DeLisio said entry fees would be refunded to all players in this category who do not wish to compete for gross prize only.

The tournament pairings and starting times will be published in Thursday's Daily Freeman.

"We are again splitting the field into morning and afternoon shifts," DeLisio explained. "This system worked extremely well last year when the field hit 92 players."

"At the moment we have 94 players and with the midnight deadline may pick up a few more. The first shift starts at 8 a.m., the second at 12:30 p.m."

Gordon Wins It

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sport Editor

WOODSTOCK
There's one thing you'll have to say about Howie Gordon, the new Woodstock Country Club champion. He can stare into the face of adversity and beat it.

Gordon, a 19-year-old Dickinson College sophomore, defeated his long-time buddy, John Buoymaster, by three strokes, 72-75, in the 18-hole championship playoff to become the first left handed player to win a major tournament at Woodstock.

The tall, dark-haired Gordon, a meticulous player with a smooth putting stroke, had to travel the hard road to tie Buoymaster with 150 in the regulation 36-hole medal tournament. He forfeited two strokes for hitting the wrong ball and had an out of bounds ball.

It was the same story in the playoff. Buoymaster, the Williams College soph, broke fast with birdies on the first and fourth holes, where Gordon hit into the pond, tried to play the ball out and wound up with a triple-bogey "6". Buoymaster made the turn in even par 35 to lead by three shots.

Buoymaster went 4-strokes up when Gordon bogeyed the 11th hole but that was the last mistake of the day by the champion. He proceeded to play the last six holes in 21 to finish with 34, while Buoymaster skied to a 40.

"I was really surprised to win it," said the modest, almost shy 18th holes in addition to the Gordon. "You don't figure to double-bogey on 13."

Gordon, who never seems to make up four strokes on Johnny in seven holes, but I knew that anything could happen in medal play so I kept swinging."

The same No. 4 hole which cost Gordon a "6" on the front nine turned out to be a double-bogey "5" for Buoymaster on the second trip and that was attracts about 5 colleges from the beginning of the end. He the East. He is a former On the had trouble with his tee shots teora High golf star and is the to compound his difficulties. He son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph had bogeys on the 12th, 16 and Gordon of Phenicia.

KINGSTON next frame. Bud's again took runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to grab a 9-5 come-from-behind win over Bud's Submarine and lay claim as champs of the National Division B in the City Slow Pitch Softball League Shaughnessy Playoffs.

Catcher John Vogt, hitting in the tenth position in the winning lineup, assumed the role of hero by clubbing a home run and collecting a game-high total of three RBIs.

The submariners ran off to a 3-0 lead in the second inning, but Anchorage tied it up in the GENERAL TENDENCIES: (to July 21) Try not to pester Control impulse to spend more friends to help you monetarily than you can afford; try to since they are pretty much in economize where it will not the same boat. Steer clear of injure vital activities to which that group meeting where you are committed. Make trouble could ensue. Good day whatever repairs you can for reading.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) without too much expense on your property and possessions. Avoid bigwigs who are in the mood to be critical of you today and get busy with own affairs. Make sure you pay bills that are due. Forget work tonight and get busy with entertaining benefit. Business expert you know has little time for you. VIRGO (Aug. 2 to Sept. 22) now. Await a better day to see. Although you have excellent ideas, this is not a good day to put them in operation, since although you are not you do not have enough in progressing in personal affairs formation about them. A as you would like to, being newcomer can disappoint you forceful with others ruins now. Stick to the tried and true, things. Tomorrow the situation (Sept. 23 to Oct. 29) changes. Get busy improving you had better get busy at all health and appearance. That work ahead of you and pay. GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) your bills, even though the Safeguard your reputation, pressure makes you feel you otherwise some indiscreet as a martyr. Then you can tion could cause real trouble relax tomorrow. Happiness with you do not deserve, or want, mate in p.m. SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) An irate official may criticize. Figure out how best to handle those affairs intelligently even Show you are a stoic. MOON CHILDREN (June 22 though a partner wants own way exclusively. Show tact with those who oppose you. Evening will then be an interesting one from the social standpoint. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Try not to be in such a hassle and hurry that you cause damage to car or property. Plan your time wisely and all is well. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Try not to get involved with undesirable company just because you want to have fun today, or you could pay for it dearly. Stick to the tried and true and do not forget to pay bills you owe. Get to bed at a reasonable hour tonight. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can certainly get into trouble with family if you insist on going through with some project they dislike. Try to be more reasonable and everything is better for everyone concerned. Take it easy tonight. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Much caution needs to be exercised either in driving or in dealing with others, or you could get into much trouble today. Use tact in communications, also. You are thinking and acting too fast — slow down.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who wants to get a very early start at whatever is of a practical nature and wants to make money so quickly that a demanding attitude will be adopted that could cause others to shy away. Otherwise people will find your youngster interesting, so teach while young to reason and to have patience for best results with others. Give enough physical work so that the nature is adequately balanced. Business college would be good. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! WHY WE SAY

SCORE

TOTAL: The total points in a game is the score. The word comes from Old Norse "skora," a notch which was used to keep tally of animals in a herd. Each twenty meant a new notch or score.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

38-D: (Q.) The boys call me their little sex symbol—because I have a small waist, shapely legs, and wear a 38-D bra.

I get a lot of attention I don't want. The boys think I'm sexy on purpose. Could you please tell me how to make myself less noticeable?—Too Big in Oklahoma.

(A.) First, be aware that many girls smaller than you have the same problems you have. Second, wake up to the fact that you are fortunate to be so well-constructed.

Third, learn to wear the right kind of clothes, especially blouses and dresses that can give you a soft and full and covered-up look and not the big and cheap look that too many big-breasted girls and women have. Your dresses and blouses should be loose-fitting, and they should suggest rather than outline the fullness beneath.

Fourth, stand and sit straight and confident and unashamed. Do not slump. Fifth, learn to tell a boy, quietly but decisively, to cool it. But do not overdo this to the point of hostility.

LASH LOSS: (Q.) I use cold cream to take off my mascara. It comes off but my lashes come out. What can I do to stop that?—Peeled in Florida.

(A.) Remove all your eye makeup with mascara remover pads. Be GENTLE. Start at the top of your nose. Move the pad outward over your top eyelid and then around your eye and back to your nose.

The direction is important. So is the gentleness. The pads will leave a good treatment cream around your eyes. It helps eyelashes to stay put and it helps fight crow's feet.

Chad Talks Like a Doctor

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If one is a bit of a hypochondriac, a lunch break with Chad Everett gives one the nice, warm feeling of a security blanket. Everett—about to enter his third CBS season as "Medical Center's" all-around practitioner of medicine and super-surgeon, Dr. Joe Gannon—looks and acts just the way one wishes the family doctor would. He also uses words such as "aneurism" with the fluency of a man who has spent a lifetime peering at X rays.

Although the operating room scenes occupy only a fraction on any episode's time, Everett prepares for them with the intensity of an athlete training for the Olympics. He is particularly proud of some fan mail he received from real doctors congratulating him on his skill manipulating a pair of Metzenbaum scissors in an operating room scene.

"They are used to cut blood vessels," the actor explained. "You hold them for cutting between the thumb and the third finger, and then swing them back to free your other fingers for tying off vessels and using sponges. It really took a lot of practice to get the hang of it."

As in other medical series, the sickness and surgery sequences of "Medical Center" are handled cautiously. A committee of a medical association checks out the scripts and there are many technical advisors. Everett prepared to play doctor by spending hours in a hospital. He also took 48 hours of color film showing doctors at work in operating rooms and he looks at this library frequently.

The actor has picked up so much medical knowledge that when his dog recently ripped his ear in a fight, the veterinarian asked Chad if he wanted to help sew the animal up. Everett declined, he said hastily, who steps in to handle the difficult, delicate parts of his operation.

Target of Cambodian Terrorists

U.S. Ambassador Unharmed

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Terrorists made an unsuccessful bid to kill the U.S. Ambassador to Cambodia, Emory C. Swank, by rushing a bomb-laden bicycle out of an alleyway as he sped past in his car on his way to work, embassy officials reported today.

Swank was unharmed and an embassy spokesman said the ambassador was not aware until several hours after the incident that an assassination attempt had been made.

The riderless bicycle bumped gently against Swank's car as it rolled out into the roadway, the official said.

A Cambodian security guard, Sgt. Yim Sarun, accompanied the ambassador on the half-mile journey from his residence and later sent police back to investigate the bicycle, which was found to have a plastic explosive charge attached to the handlebars, the spokesman said.

He added that the incident occurred around 7:30 a.m. but that the ambassador was not one of the victims.

In April, another terrorist bomb that failed to explode was contained in a school bag thrown from a passing motorcycle at an American Embassy car waiting to pick up a passenger.

Simultaneous attacks were made June 1 on a Marine guard residence and quarters for members of the U.S. military equipment delivery team. Two Americans were injured in these attacks.

Cambodian police sources said they were seeking a youth about 18 who was seen pushing the bicycle out of an alleyway into the path of the ambassador's limousine.

Cambodian police took charge of the investigation. They said the youth, who appeared to be alone, ran off as soon as he pushed the bicycle about 10 feet into the path of the car.

The sources said a pressure-type detonator had been attached to the bomb and it was set to explode on contact with the car.

Swank, 49, and married, entered the diplomatic service in 1946. He has served in Jakarta, Moscow, Bucharest and Vientiane. He is a native of Frederick, Md.

The bomb attack was the fifth aimed at the American Embassy and its members since war erupted here last year.

VICTIMS REMOVED IN HAMBURG CRASH (UPI Cablephoto)

20 Killed in German Crash

HAMBURG, Germany (UPI) — A British-built jetliner with 121 West Germans aboard on a charter vacation flight to Spain grazed a highway bridge moments after takeoff Monday and crashed and burned in a field.

Twenty persons were killed, including three who died in hospitals. Thirty-eight other persons aboard the twin-engine aircraft were injured seriously and 53 escaped with bruises. Ten persons were missing.

Police said that shortly after the BAC111 jet took off from Hamburg's Fuhlsbuettel Airport, pilot Reinhold Huels, 31, radioed the tower he was having difficulty with the engines. He and four of the six crewmembers aboard survived. West German Transport Minister George Leber ordered the Federal Aviation Agency in Braunschweig to investigate the accident. British Aviation Corp. (BAC) experts will join the investigation today.

The plane was operated by the Munich-based Paninternational Charter Co., which is owned by the West German Pan Europa Travel Agency. The craft carried 115 passengers and a crew of five on the flight to Malaga, Spain.

The plane grazed a bridge spanning the Hamburg to Flensburg Autobahn, crashed on a farmer's field adjacent to the highway and burst into flames. It was not known whether Huels was attempting to land on the highway. Police said there was no traffic on the highway at the time of the crash.

Witnesses said they saw passengers scramble out of the burning wreckage, including a man and a woman they saw climb out one of the plane's shattered windows.

"It was a terrible sight," said farmer Heinrich Cordt, owner of the field. "It was like a bomb explosion, and a pillar of smoke rose from the burning debris." The farmhouse is about 100 yards from the crash site.

Seats, luggage, wreckage and bodies were scattered for several hundred yards around the plane.

Thousands of curious drove to the site after the radio had flashed the news of the crash, causing traffic jams that delayed ambulances carrying the injured to nearby hospitals.

It was the second serious air accident in West Germany in less than a month. On Aug. 18, 37 American soldiers were killed in the crash of an Army helicopter in Bavaria.

Recovery Units Still At the Alaskan Scene

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — Smashed to bits on a rain-soaked, wind-beaten mountain side, the jet airliner is left in pieces small enough to hold in your hand.

"We've got a lot of rain, low clouds and wind, and those people on the hill are taking a beating," an official said of rescuers who will continue today to remove the bodies of 111 victims from the mountain.

"We've got that airplane scattered up and down a hillside for about 1,500 feet," added the official, Patrick Wellington, deputy commissioner of the Alaska Public Safety Department.

By late Monday rescuers had recovered 56 bodies and the flight recorders from the scene where the Alaska Airlines 727 jet crashed Saturday in the nation's worst single-aircraft disaster.

The bodies and debris were scattered throughout three parallel depressions 2,500 feet up 3,500-foot Mt. Chilkat.

As the bodies labeled with marking pencils for identification and airlifted by helicopter to Juneau, where a temporary morgue has been set up in a National Guard armory.

Recovery workers moved through fist-sized chunks of metal, paper and clothing searching for the remains of victims Monday as three private helicopters and one Coast Guard craft moved over the area, ferrying supplies to the rescue party.
